1. The District Chaukidari Reward Fund constituted under section 42 of the Act, shall be treated in accounts as an Incorporated Local Fund, and the receipts and charges dealt with in accordance with the instructions contained in chapter 16A. the Civil Account Code.

2. The assets of the Fund will ordinarily consist of (a) fines and penalties levied under sections 8, 27 and 38, and (b) such sums as may be contributed to it by Government.

3. The Magistrate of the district shall be the administrator of the Fund.

(1) All bills against the Fund will be signed by him, the charges being regulated by the ordinary budget rules.

(2) He will also estimate for the receipts and charges of the Fund in the usual way, and submit such estimates along with his other estimates to the Accountant-General, who will deal with them like other estimates in accordance with the budget rules.

(3) The estimates will include any contribution required from Provincial Revenues, but such contribution cannot be drawn and credited to the Fund, except with the authority of the Accountant-General under special orders of Government in each case.

4. Subject to the provisions of section 3A, the power to fine chaukidars departmentally under section 38 is vested in the District Magistrate. A copy of every order passed under section 8 or 38 by any officer to whom the District Magistrate has delegated his powers under section 3A, shall be forwarded at once to the District Magistrate. On receipt thereof the particulars shall be entered in Register A prescribed by rule 8.

5. An appeal from any order imposing a fine under section 8 or 38 and passed by any officer other than the District Magistrate shall lie to the District Magistrate if lodged within 30 days from the date on which such order was communicated to the panchayat or chaukidar fined. Subject to the provisions of section 64, no appeal shall lie from any such order passed by the District Magistrate.

6. (a) All fines imposed under sections 8 and 38, and penalties imposed under section 27, and realised by a tahsildar appointed under section 46A, shall, on realisation, be at once deposited in the District or Subdivisional Treasury to the credit of the District Chaukidari Reward Fund by means of duplicate chalans.

(b) Penalties under section 27 realised by panchayats should be entered in their Register II (as prescribed by Rule VIII of the rules issued in the notification of the 12th April 1887), and sent at the close of each quarter to the officer in charge of the police-station, who will grant a receipt for the amount and deal with it under the preceding clause of this rule.

7. The Treasury Officer will retain one of the chalans and return the other, duly receipted, to the official depositing the money, who will forward it, together with the fine statements prescribed by rule 9, for entry in the accounts of the Fund.

8. Two registers, A and B, in the forms given in the appendix, shall be kept in the office of the District Magistrate (or of the District Superintendent of Police) showing the details of the operation of the above rules.

9. One clear week before the date fixed for the quarterly payment of chaukidars' salaries, the District Magistrate shall send to the officer in charge of each police-station a consolidated statement showing the fines recoverable from the chaukidars of such station. The officer in charge thereof shall thereupon at the time of the payment of salaries realise such fines and forward them under duplicate chalans for credit in the District or Subdivisional Treasury, together with any sums received by him from panchayats or tahsildars as penalties levied under section 27 of the Act. On receipt from the treasury of the duplicate chalans referred to in rule 7, he will return them, with the fine statement above mentioned, to the Magistrate with an explanation of his inability to recover any particular fine, or part thereof.

10. (a) The only officers authorised to grant rewards to chaukidars are District Magistrates, Subdivisional Magistrates, and District Superintendents of Police.

(b) Such rewards should not ordinarily exceed the sum of Rs. 5, but the District Magistrate may, if the state of the Chaukidari Reward Fund justifies it, sanction a reward of not more than Rs. 25. For any amount exceeding Rs. 25 the sanction of the Commissioner should be obtained.

(c) Rewards should, wherever possible, be paid by the District Superintendent in person, and in his absence by an officer not lower in rank than an Inspector. They should, as a rule, be presented at chaukidari parades, and in all cases with as much publicity as possible.

11. Rewards should ordinarily be given for—

(i) Information leading to the prevention or detection of crime.

(ii) Seizure or recovery of stolen property.

(iii) Arrest of offenders or absconders.

(iv) Personal courage shown in resisting dacoits or in capturing thieves or other offenders.

(v) Meritorious conduct not included in the above clauses which the District Magistrate with the concurrence of the Commissioner, considers deserving of a special reward.

12. Fifteen days from the last day of each quarter the office of the District Magistrate (or of the District Superintendent of Police) shall prepare, in the form marked (C) in the appendix, an abstract account of the transactions of the Chaukidari Reward Fund during the said quarter. Such account shall be audited and compared with the Treasury accounts by an officer nominated for the purpose by the District Magistrate, to whom the result of such audit shall be duly certified. The abstract account shall also be checked and compared with the memorandum showing the balances and accounts of the Fund which the Accountant-General furnishes each quarter to the Administrator of the Fund.

CHAPTER II.

License and Rules.

Granting of licenses authorising the supply of electricity.

3. The Local Government may from time to time license any company or person to supply electricity under this Act for any purpose within any specified area of Calcutta, subject to the following provisions:—

(i) The consent of every local authority, having jurisdiction within the area or any part of the area within which a supply is licensed to be furnished, shall be required to the application for a license, which consent such local authority is hereby authorised to give, with such conditions (if any) as, subject to the approval of the Local Government, the local authority may prescribe:

Provided that if the Local Government is satisfied, after due enquiry, and having regard to all the circumstances of the case, that the local authority has for no sufficient reason withheld its consent, the Local Government may nevertheless grant the license.

(ii) A license granted under this Act shall be for any period not exceeding twenty-one years, but may, at or after the expiry of such license, be renewed from time to time for a like period with such consent as above mentioned upon such terms and conditions as the Local Government may determine.

(iii) Every company or person applying for a license under this Act shall publish notice of their application by public advertisement in such manner and including such particulars as the Local Government may from time to time direct or approve; and such license shall not be granted by the Local Government until after the expiration of a period of three months from the date of the first publication of such advertisement, nor until opportunity has been given to all parties interested to make representations or objections to the Local Government with reference to the application.

(iv) Such license may make such regulations as to the limits within which and the conditions under which a supply of electricity is to be compulsory or permissive, and for enforcing the performance by the licensees of their duties in relation to such supply and for the revocation of the license,

where the licensees fail to perform such duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Local Government may think expedient.

(v) The grant of a license to any undertakers to supply electricity within any area for any purpose, shall not in any way hinder or restrict the granting of any license to any other company or person within the same area for a like purpose.

Power of Local Government to make rules and to cancel them.

4. (1) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, from time to time, to make, and, when made, to alter or repeal rules not inconsistent with this Act—

(a) in relation to applications for licenses and the payments to be made in respect thereof; or

(b) in relation to the publication of notices and advertisements under this Act; or

(d) in relation to the holding of local inquiries in such cases as it may think advisable; and

(e) for the purpose of generally carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) The Local Government shall, before making, altering or repealing rules under this section—

(a) publish a draft of the proposed rules and alterations and a notification of the proposed repeals in the Calcutta Gazette; and

(b) specify a date not less than two months from the date of publication, at or after which such draft and notification will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Local Government shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to such draft and notification before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule so made or altered, and every repeal of any such rule under this section, shall be thereafter published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Conditions to be inserted in licenses.

5. (1) The undertakers shall be subject to such regulations and conditions as may be inserted in any license under this Act affecting their undertaking with regard to the following matters:—

(a) the limits within which and the conditions under which a supply of electricity is to be compulsory or permissive;

(b) the securing a regular and efficient supply of electricity;

(c) the securing the safety of the public from personal injury, or from fire, or otherwise;

(d) the limitation of the prices to be charged in respect of the supply of electricity;

(e) the authorising inspection and enquiry from time to time by such officer as the Local Government may from time to time appoint in that behalf;

(f) the enforcement of the due performance of the duties of the undertakers in relation to the supply of electricity by the imposition of penalties or otherwise, and the revocation of the license where the undertakers have, in the opinion of the Local Government, practically failed to carry the powers granted to them into effect within a reasonable time, or discontinued the exercise of such powers; and

(g) generally with regard to any other matters in connexion with such undertakings:

Provided that the Local Government may—

(i) from time to time make such regulations as it may think expedient for securing the safety of the public from personal injury, or from fire, or otherwise; and

(ii) from time to time amend or repeal any regulations or conditions which may be contained in any such license:

Provided always that any regulations or conditions so made or amended by the Local Government shall, from and after the date thereof, have the like effect in every respect as though they had been originally inserted in the license authorising the undertaking:

And provided that every regulation or condition so repealed shall from and after the date thereof be repealed accordingly, but such repeal shall not affect any liability or penalty incurred in respect thereof prior to the date of such repeal or any proceeding or remedy, which might have been had in relation thereto.

(ii) further forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each subsequent day during which any such delay as aforesaid shall continue after they shall have received such notice.

In cases of delay other parties may reinstate and recover the expenses.

11. (1) Whenever any such delay or omission as aforesaid shall occur, the local authority, company or person having the control or management of the street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel, in respect of which such delay or omission shall occur, may cause the work so delayed or omitted to be executed.

(2) The expense of executing the same shall in every case be repaid to such local authority, company or person by the undertakers.

Restriction on breaking up streets, &c.

12. (1) Nothing in this Act shall authorise or empower the undertakers to open or break up any street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel without the consent of the local authority, company, or person, by whom such street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel is repairable, unless in pursuance of special powers in that behalf inserted in the license under this Act or with the written consent of the Local Government.

(2) The Local Government shall not in any case insert any such special powers in any license or give any such consent, until notice has been given to such local authority, company or person by advertisement or otherwise as the Local Government may direct, and an opportunity has been given to such local authority, company or person to state any objections they may have thereto.

Restrictions as to above-ground works.

13. (1) Notwithstanding anything in this Act, the undertakers shall not be authorised to place any electric line above ground, along, over, or across any street without the express consent of the Local Government, and the Local Government may require the undertakers to forthwith remove any electric line placed by them contrary to the provisions of this section, or may cause the same to be removed and recover the expenses of such removal from the undertakers in manner hereinafter specified.

(2) In cases where any such electric line has been placed above ground by such undertakers, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, on complaint made and if of opinion that such electric line is, or is likely to become, dangerous to the public safety, may, notwithstanding any such consent as aforesaid, make an order directing and authorising the removal of such electric line by such person and upon such terms as such Magistrate may think fit.

Power of undertakers to alter position of pipes and wires.

14. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of the license under this Act authorising them to supply electricity, the undertakers may alter the position of any pipes or wires under any street or place authorised to be broken up by them, which may interfere with the exercise of their powers under this Act, on previously making or securing such compensation to the owners of such pipes or wires, and on complying with such conditions as to the mode of making such alterations as may before the commencement of such alterations be agreed upon between the undertakers and owners, or in case of difference as may be determined in manner prescribed by the license authorising the undertakers to supply electricity, or, when no such manner is prescribed, as may be determined by arbitration.

(2) Any local or other public authority, company or person may, in like manner, alter the position of any electric lines or works of the undertakers, being under any such street or place as aforesaid, which may interfere with the lawful exercise of any powers vested in such local or other public authority, company or person in relation to such street or place, subject to the like provisions, conditions and restrictions as are in this section contained with reference to the alteration of the position of any pipes or wires by the undertakers.

Compensation for damage

Undertakers not to prescribe special form of lamp, &c.

17. The undertakers shall not be entitled to prescribe any special form of lamp or burner to be used by any company or person, or in any way to control or interfere with the manner in which electricity supplied by them under this Act or by reason of any license is used:

Provided that no company or person shall be at liberty to use any form of lamp or burner, or to use the electricity supplied to them for any purpose, or to deal with it in any manner, so as to unduly or improperly interfere with the supply of electricity supplied to any other company or person by the undertakers, and if any dispute or difference arises between the undertakers and any company or person as to the matters aforesaid, such dispute or difference shall be determined by arbitration.

Obligation on undertakers to supply electricity.

18. In cases where a supply of electricity is provided in any part of an area for private purposes, every company or person within that part of the area shall, except in so far as it is otherwise provided by the terms of the license authorising such supply, be entitled, on application, to a supply on the same terms on which any other company or person in such part of the area is entitled under similar circumstances to a corresponding supply.

Incoming tenants not liable to pay arrears of rent for electricity.

22. In cases where any company or person supplied with electricity by the undertakers leaves the premises where such electricity has been supplied, without paying the electricity rent, or meter rent already due, such undertakers shall not be entitled to require from the next tenant of such premises the payment of the arrears left unpaid by the former tenant, unless such incoming tenant has undertaken with the former tenant to pay or exonerate him from the payment of such arrears.

(4) The undertakers or their agents shall conform with such reasonable requirements, either general or special, as may from time to time be made by the telegraph authority for the purpose of preventing any telegraph from being injuriously affected by the said work.

(5) Any difference arising between the telegraph authority and the undertakers or their agents, with respect to any requirements so made, shall be determined by the Local Government, and the order of the Local Government thereon shall be final.

(6) In the event of any contravention of, or wilful non-compliance with, this section by the undertakers or their agents, such undertakers shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every day during which such contravention or non-compliance continues, or if the telegraphic communication is wilfully interrupted, to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for every day on which such interruption continues:

Provided that nothing in this section shall subject the undertakers or their agents to a fine under this section, if they satisfy the Court trying the case that the immediate execution of the work was required to avoid an accident, or otherwise was a work of emergency, and that they forthwith served on the telegraph authority a notice of the execution of the work, stating the reason for executing the same without previous notice.

(7) For the purposes of this section a telegraphic line shall be deemed to be injuriously affected by a work, if telegraphic communication by means of such line is, whether through induction or otherwise, in any manner affected by such work, or by any use made of such work.

May 20th	156	12mo dy	1st...	1,500	ditto ...	1 0 0	The Author, Bágbázár, Basupárá, Calcutta.	The well-known story of Karameti Bái taken from the Bhaktamála, with modifications introduced for dramatic effect Karameti was a Brahman girl, who, from early childhood, evinced a passionate love for Srí Krishna. After her marriage, she refused to live with her husband, escaped from his house and passed her life in religious contemplation. There is a good deal of low buffoonery in the play, which might have been omitted with advantage.	3167
July 22nd	148	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 12 0	.....	A story in which all the members of an honest man's family meet together after having been separated from one another for years and subjected to an unparalleled series of hardships through the machinations of a dishonest relative of theirs. It illustrates the ultimate success of virtue and the downfall of vice. The plot is clumsy and uninteresting.	3168
May 19th	120	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 10 0	The Publisher.	A story of Bengali domestic life, in which a man ill-treats his parents and ultimately drives them from his house at the instigation of his wife. The wife then elopes with her paramour, and the husband renounces the world in remorse and disgust. She at last dies in the street as a pauper leper in the presence of her husband. The book is written from the standpoint of Hindu orthodoxy, and the writer, though a Mahommedan, possesses a thorough command over colloquial and idiomatic Bengali.	3169

1895.	Pages.					Rs. A. P.
July 20th	112	12mo dy	1st...	500	Printed.	0 8 0	The Author, Sambalpur.	The book contains five short pieces, of which the second and the third are in the form of the dramatic composition known in Sanskrit by the name Vithi. The first piece headed 'Melá and Sohelá' is a cooly story. Melé, a Kol girl of Bamrá, a Native State in Orissa, with her father and mother, is enticed away by a recruiter to a tea garden in Assam. Her lover Sohelá follows her thither after suffering great hardships. But on the day of his arrival, which was on a Christmas day, the girl, who had caught the fancy of the manager sáheb, was forcibly taken away from his embrace and ravished, notwithstanding the opposition offered by himself and her parents. They then bring a charge against the Sáheb and his two companions who helped him in committing the crime; but the charge is dismissed by the 'wretch' of an English Judge, and the parties who brought it sent to jail for having got up a false case. The girl thus left helpless pines away and dies in a short time. The story is said to be a true one and the real names of the parties have been suppressed for fear of the law. The second piece, a Vithi, is a story of the god Mahádeva's love-making with Sumukhi, the daughter of a king of Cooch Behár; while the third narrates how a king of Sambalpur once surprised a fairy named Sámlai in a solitary garden and gave up his life in order to follow her to Heaven. The fourth is a love story of which the scene is laid at a place near Puri in Orissa, now known as Chakratirtha. The last piece gives the traditions connected with the first worship by the Aryans of the alleged non-Aryan deity Vindhya Vásiní.	3305

June 25th	75	8vo dy	1st...	750	Printed.	0 8 0	.....	An exposition of the tenets of the Rádhásvámí cult, with an account of the duties and responsibilities of its followers. The word Rádhásvámí means Lord of All. Sound is the first manifestation of the Lord and creator of the universe. It goes on creating different lokus or regions, and the universe which we see is the fourth one created by it. It is this universe that is presided over by Para Brahma. The true method of obtaining eternal bliss consists in making the creative principle, which is present in all, retrace its steps towards the Lord of All. In short, the Rádhásvámí cult may be regarded as a sort of modified Vedantism.	3336

BOOKS.
June 13th	7	16mo rl	1st...	100	ditto ...	.....	Uttarpárá Hita kari Sabhá.	A short biography of the late Babu Pyárí Mohan Banerji of Uttarpárá. Babu Pyárí Mohan served as a Munsiff in the Allahabad District during the tronblous days of the Sepoy Mutiny. By his tact and power of organization he collected and equipped a force of 800, men, whom he led in person against a band of insurgents under the command of some of the disaffected zamindars of the province. According to the Government records, quoted by his biographer, a pitched battle was fought, in which the ringleader of the rebels was killed, and the rebel force routed. He is, therefore, better known among his countrymen as the Fighting Munsiff. Latterly he left Government service, and practised as a pleader in the Allahabad High Court, where he rose to be the Senior Government Pleader.	3534

June 4th	126	12mo rl	1st...	500	ditto ...	1 0 0	The Author, 12, Rámdhan Mitra's Lane, Calcutta.	Two short stories descriptive of Indian life. The first, saralá, gives a faithful picture of the domestic life of a poor but respectable Brahman family in a Mufassal village in Bengal. The hero of the story, who starts life as a poor Sarkár in a Calcutta mercantile firm, becomes at last a millionaire through the favour of a Siddha Purusha (an adept.) In the second story, Hingana, the Author describes the manners and customs of the Gonds of Central India. The superstitious dread of witchcraft which these simple hillmen entertain, and the cruel fate that awaits any one suspected of practising it, as also the way in which this feeling is made use of by wicked persons in wreaking vengeance on an innocent enemy, have been very faithfully delineated in this story.	3537

The characters described belong to the upper class Scottish society of a past generation.	3539

1895.	Page.					Rs. A. P.
April 27th	106	16mo dc	1st...	700	Printed	0 7 0	Ravíndra Náth Tágore, 6, Dváraká Náth Tágore's Lane, Calcutta.	Among the articles in this number those on 'Lorik's songs', which are sung by the milkmen of Behar, and a comparsion between the Marathi and the Bengali	3842 literature are the most important. The notes appended at the end speak in approbation of Ferozshah Mehta's Budget speech, and his speech on the Police Bill, and take a more or less hopeful view of the ultimate result of the election of Indians to the Legislative Councils. These Councils, it is remarked, worked like lifeless machines before the election of native members, who have enlivened them by importing strife and discord into their debates. And however disturbing to their equanimity, the officials should tolerate the innovation, which is, after all, a symptom of awakening political life among the Indians.
May 28th	90	16mo dc	1st...	750	ditto ...	0 7 0	ditto ...	In two of the articles in this number the ill-treatment of natives by Europeans is referred to and the following remarks are made on the subject :—It is the duty of all patriotic	3843
natives to protect their fellow-countrymen from oppression, even at the risk of going to jail. When Indians feel that there are men ready to die for their sake, their notion of self-respect will develop. When the gorá (the British soldier) sees that there is danger in killing a nigger, he will satisfy his thirst for blood with other shikar. A man who, like Kesavlál or the Uriya zamindar assaulted by Mr. Radice, quietly, swallows the insult offered him by a European, is an object, not of pity, but of contempt. And it is not by whining and complaining, such as is indulged in by the native press, that this ill-treatment of natives by Europeans can be checked. Let only natives shew by their acts that they will tolerate such things no more, and Englishmen will be forced to chain the beast within them and learn to respect the former.
June 28th	112	16mo dc	1st...	750	ditto ...	0 7 0	ditto ...	This number contains an interesting article on a village fair in Bengal and an article protesting	3844 against the recrudescence of Vaishnava literature with its pessimistic teachings, and the doctrine that life is not worth living and that Vairágya or renunciation of the world is the sole means of obtaining salvation. It also contains an account of the celebrated Lakshmí Bái of Jhansi, collected from native and independent sources.
July 30th	96	16mo dc	1st...	750	ditto ...	0 7 0	ditto... ...	The political notes appended to this number deal with the question of the retention of Chitral,	3845
the faults and foibles of English character and Prince Nasrullah's visit to England, and on these topics the writer delivers himself as follows : The retention of Chitral will mean further troubles ; for Englishmen have a strange knack of offending other peoples by their haughtiness They flatter themselves with the belief that, wherever they set their foot they are welcomed by the people as their máibáp, and yet such is the irony of fate, that in Egypt they are anxious to create a tribunal for trying summarily the offences committed by natives against their persons. While reviewing the book entitled "Wilson in Matabeleland," the English Spectator characterises 'delight in killing' as a normal trait in healthy human male animals ; and it is perhaps their partiality for this normal trait that makes Englishmen in India overlook native murders by Tom Atkins.

FINAL REPORT ON THE BHADOI CROPS IN BENGAL, 1895.

THE following is published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Dated the 30th December 1895.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Bhadoi Crops in Bengal, 1895.

N. B.—Returns have been received from all districts in the Lower Provinces except Champaran. In the case of Champaran the estimates given in the preliminary forecast issued in October last have been repeated.

1. Explanations.—The classification of crops adopted in this report is the same as that followed in the Financial Report on the bhadoi crops in Bengal for the year 1894, except that bhadoi til has been shown under a separate heading in order that complete returns for oil-seeds may be available for the provincial returns of agricultural statistics published by this Department. The present report furnishes a review of all bhadoi crops grown in these provinces, comprising bhadoi paddy millets, maize, other bhadoi cereals and pulses, other bhadoi food-crops (e.g., vegetables) and bhadoi non-food crops, including estimates of jute and cotton as shown in the special forecasts, with separate figures for bhadoi til and indigo.

2. Character of the season.—The prospects of the bhadoi crops are, generally speaking, determined by the rainfall from April to September, and especially by the rainfall from the middle of May onwards. In April the rainfall was generally above the normal. The character of the last monsoon season was fully described in the Final Report on the winter rice crop of Bengal issued on the 10th instant, and has been reproduced here for easy reference. In the month of May, the rainfall was less than the normal in South-West Bengal, in parts of North Bengal, in South Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, but in the Rajshahi, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling and Pabna districts of North Bengal, in East Bengal and in North Bihar was above the normal

In June, the rainfall was abnormal. In East and North Bengal, the fall was less than half the normal, in West and Central Bengal, and in parts of Bihar, it was deficient, but Chota Nagpur generally received the normal amount of rain, and Orissa, double the usual amount of rain.

In July, the rainfall was deficient in Central and South-West Bengal except Bankura, in South Bihar except Shahabad, in Orissa and in parts of Chota Nagpur. In Northern Bengal, North Bihar, and the Bhagalpur Division, the rainfall in this month was above the normal.

In August, Bihar and Orissa received sufficient rain, but in South-West, East and North Bengal except Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri, and in Chota Nagpur, rain was deficient. In September, the rainfall was below the normal in every district except Rangpur, Bogra, Saran, Champaran, and Puri.

In October it was also deficient except in Burdwan, Jessore, Khulna, Faridpur, Backergunge, Tippera, Chittagong, Cuttack, Manbhum, and Singhbhum.

The season up to September was on the whole favourable, though rain was deficient in some districts. Deficiency or excess of rainfall after that date would not affect the bhadoi crops to an appreciable extent. The estimates made in the first forecasts, however, have been considerably altered, and in the case of Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, Bhagalpur and Palamau, the outturn is reported to have been affected for the worse by unfavourable weather at the close of the bhadoi season.

Floods are reported from Jalpaiguri, Bogra, Pabna, Dacca and Mymensingh.

3. Area cultivated.—The total area cultivated with bhadoi crops this year appears, from the district estimates appended to this note, to have been 15,670,200 acres, against 15,913,500 acres estimated to have been sown in 1894. The present estimated acreage is thus only 1·5 per cent. less than that of last year. The decrease is nominal and is noticeable chiefly in the areas under bhadoi paddy (decrease of 2·3 per cent,) and under "other non-food crops" (decrease of 2·9 per cent.). The contraction in the area under bhadoi paddy was due to want of rain at the time of sowing. The estimates show an increase in the area sown with maize and other (bhadoi) cereals and pulses, the area of the latter being 3·4 per cent. in excess of that of last year.

It will be seen from the district returns that bhadoi food-crops of the current year occupy about 77 per cent. of the total area under bhadoi crops, bhadoi paddy alone occupying about 45 per cent. of the whole area.

There are insignificant differences between the estimates of area as given in the present returns and those given in the first forecast issued in October last, which are due to a revision of estimates by District Officers.

4. Character of the crop.—From the statement appended to this note, it will be seen that, taking the bhadoi crops of these provinces as a whole, 6 out of 45 districts, viz., Rangpur, Tippera, Saran, Champaran, Purnea, Angul and Khondmals, return an average crop of 16 annas, 26 districts return crops varying from 12 to less than 16 annas, and 13 from 9 to less than 12 annas. Taking the estimates of bhadoi paddy by themselves, it will be found that ten* districts report a 16-anna crop, 21 districts crops varying from 12 to less than 16 annas, and 14 districts, viz., all the districts of the Burdwan Division and all the Presidency districts except Khulna, and the Rajshahi, Bogra,

* Dinajpur, Rangpur, Tippera, Patna, Saran, Champaran, Purnea, Angul and Khondmals, Hazaribagh and Manbhum.

Jalpaiguri, Chittagong and Lohardaga districts report crops varying from 8 to less than 12 annas; Hooghly being the only district where the crop has been injured to the extent of 8 annas. A comparision of the present estimates of outturn with those given in the first forecast of October shows that five* districts report better crops, 22 districts equal crops, and 18 districts worse crops. As compared with estimates of last year, the outturn of the present year is reported to be better in the case of 18 districts, equal in 3 districts, and worse in 24 districts. On consideration of all the estimates quoted above, the bhadoi crops of these provinces, taken as a whole, may be said to be nearly as good as that of last year. It appears to be necessary to reduce the outturn as anticipated in the preliminary forecast by one anna, and to estimate a 14-anna crop for these provinces. The outturn, though below the average, appears to have been sufficient to keep up plentiful food-stocks resultant from the abundant harvests of last year.

* Bankura, Rajshahi, Dacca, Shahabad and Cuttack.

The outturn of bhadoi paddy is estimated to be about fourteen annas for the province; the jute crop was estimated in the final forecast issued in August last to yield an outturn of seventeen annas; and the outturn of the early cotton crop is shown in the cotton report published on the 2nd instant as twelve annas. The outturn of indigo has been probably less than that of last year.

4. Prices.—The prices of common rice and other food-grains continue steady generally in these provinces.

Assistant Director Land Records and Agriculture Bengal.

Burdwan ...	1,724,800	1,382,600	Bhadoi paddy ...	173,700	172,700	165,700	13½	9½	In the Sadar and Raniganj subdivisions, owing to insufficient rainfall, the outturn of bhadoi crops is not so good, as was shown last year. In the Kalna subdivision, owing to insufficient rainfall, the outturn has decreased by four annas. Owing to deficient rainfall, all the lands in the Katwa subdivision could not be sown. A portion of the cultivated lands was affected latterly by the scanty rains, and so the plants did not develop.	The Collector returns 1,382,600 acres in column 3, against 1,253,800 acres returned by him last year.

The estimated outturn remains the same as reported in the preliminary forecast. In the latter part of October there was a little rain throughout the district, which saved the crops and retained the outturn estimated preliminarily.	Last year the area in column 3 was returned as 900,000 acres.

Midnapore ...	3,292,800	2,111,500	Bhadoi paddy ...	119,700	110,200	99,700	11	10½	There was a decrease both in area and outturn of bhadoi paddy, owing to insufficient rainfall at the sowing time and the crops in high land having been subsequently destroyed for want of rain. The areas brought under cultivation of bajra, mandua, maize, other cereals, indigo and other non-food crops were either equal to or greater than that of last year, and may, be attributed to seasonable rainfall at the special localities where they were cultivated, and the outturns were better or worse according to the distribution of subsequent rainfall in those localities.

PURCHASE OF STORES FOR PUBLIC WORKS.

No. 6383A.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Accounts.

Dated Calcutta, the 30th December 1895.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

(1) Letter from the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, No. 5692A., dated 12th November 1895, submitting to the Government of India, Public Works Department, the statement of expenditure on stores in the General and Irrigation Branches of the Public Works Department in Bengal for the year 1894-95.

(2) Letter from the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, No. 1426S.R., dated 25th March 1895, pointing out that, as it is understood several of the principal engineering firms in India now possess the apparatus necessary for the proper testing both of the raw material and of the finished product, the fullest use should be made, subject to the prescribed precautions, of the liberty to procure supplies in India.

(3) Resolution on the operations of the Public Works Department, Bengal, in 1893-94 in respect of purchases of stores in England and locally.

REMARKS.—In fulfilment of the promise made in paragraph 6 of the Resolution read above, the following information is compiled and published, showing the operations of the Public Works Department of this Province in 1894-95 in respect of purchases of stores in England and locally.

2. The total cost of stores entirely obtained from England, was Rs. 1,45,966, as against Rs. 2,62,492 in 1893-94. The following is a list of the principal items:—

		Rs.
A	Two Double-barrel rotary force pumps, with 60 revolutions, discharging 30 and 10 gallons, respectively, per minute.	1,128	These were required for supplying filtered water to bath-room and Dhobie's platform in the Presidency General Hospital, Dallanda.
	Two boilers with two cranes	22,491	These were required for the two Marchant's dredgers built at the Cuttack Workshops for use in the Orissa Canals in the Brahmini-Byturni and Balasore Divisions respectively. The boilers were sent out whole, i.e., rivetted together, but the mountings which had to be removed during transit were fitted on at the above Workshops. The cranes with necessary boiler connections were sent out in parts, which were fitted up at the same Workshops.
	Lathe 6" centre for use in Cuttack Workshops.	5,050	This was sent out from England in parts and fitted up in the Cuttack Workshops.
B	Rolled iron joists ...	33,190	These were required for use in the East Block, Indian Museum; South Calcutta Hospital, Bhawanipore; filtered water-supply, Presidency General Hospital; Central Press, Dharamtolla; additional barracks, Bhagalpur Central Jail, and the Durgauti Viaduct.
	T-iron bars	14,745	These were obtained for use in the roof of the Eastern Block, Indian Museum, Calcutta.

		Rs.
B	Bed-plates	1,901	These were required for the above buildings as well as for the South Calcutta Hospital at Bhowanipore.
	Leather beltings ...	2,823	These were required for use in the Dehri and Cuttack Workshops, and in the Fouracre's dredgers in the Brahmini-Byturni and Dehri Workshops Divisions.
	Candles	2,121	These were obtained for use in the Jablockhoff system of lighting in the Eden Gardens, Calcutta.
	Crotonne	1,038	These were required for Government House, Calcutta.
	Silk cloth and embroidery	21,358
	Galvanized corrugated iron...	6,885	This material is largely used for sheds, latrines, walling, &c., and is consequently indented for regularly to meet the many demands for it.
	Pig iron	3,872	These materials were brought on to stock when sent out, and were used as required on various works executed at the Government Workshops at Sibpur, Dehri and Cuttack.
	Angle-iron	5,521
	Round „	3,586
	Plate „	6,097
	Flat „	2,556
	T-iron	1,585
	Mild steel sheet ...	3,060
	Chain iron	2,179	This was obtained for use in ferry boats and dredgers in the Brahmini-Byturni Division.
	Cement	2,517	These materials were obtained for use in the various new works and repairs executed to Government buildings.
	Paints	2,263

None of the articles named in group A, nor of the materials detailed under group B, could have been entirely manufactured in India, nor are they, as far as Government knows, even sent out roughly made up to be finished at workshops in this country.

3. The total cost of stores of European manufacture purchased in India on the score of urgency was Rs. 38,684, as against Rs. 35,510 in 1893-94. The principal items which make up this total are the following:—

	Rs.
Rolled-iron joists ...	17,723	These joists were urgently required for servants' quarters north of Government House, Calcutta; bedroom, Belvedere; additions and alterations to Custom House, Calcutta; additions to Subdivisional Court at Bettiah; buildings in the Northern Drainage and Embankment Division; annual repairs to Writers' Buildings; quadrennial repairs to Bethune College, Sanskrit College, Hindu School and Small Cause Court, Calcutta, Magistrate's residence at Howrah, and other buildings in the Second Calcutta Division, and for works and repairs in the Nadia Rivers Division.
T-iron bars	7,325	These were required for servants' quarters, Indian Museum, Calcutta; bedroom, Belvedere; servants' quarters, north of Government House, Calcutta; and masonry reservoir in the Viceroy's Body-Guard stables.
Galvanized iron pipes ...	1,909	These pipes were required for the water-supply to the Midnapore Central Jail.
Plate iron	1,536	These materials had to be purchased locally for the Sibpur Workshops in connection with urgent orders, which could not have been foreseen and which could not without causing delay and inconvenience have been kept in abeyance to allow of the articles being indented for from England.
Round „	1,074
Flat „	3,725
Square „	1,414
Zinc sheets	1,506
Yellow sheeting ...	2,472

Taking the India Office prices, and adding freight and other incidental charges, the cost of these articles, if purchased in England, would have been only Rs. 36,352, so that Government paid 6·4 per cent. more through buying them in India than it would have paid in England. The corresponding loss in 1893-94 was 11 per cent.

4. The total cost of stores manufactured in India, partly from imported material and partly from indigenous material, and substituted for stores formerly imported, was Rs. 1,17,034, as against Rs. 85,315 in 1893-94. The principal items were as follows:—

	Rs.
Wrought-iron bridge ...	3,824	This was procured from a private recognized firm, who made it of imported raw materials, for bridging the Dhobijhora stream on the 16th mile of the Kurseong-Matigara Road.
Mud barges	12,000	These were required for use in the Balasore Division and were made in the Sibpur Workshops from material obtained partly through the Secretary of State and partly from the local market.
Iron work for roofing ...	2,676	These were prepared in the Dehri Workshops for constructing the roof of the Munsifi at Gopalganj.
Wrought-iron racks for record-room.	1,923	These were prepared at the Sibpur Workshops for the record-room of the Judge's Court, Chittagong, from materials obtained from England through the Secretary of State.
Wrought-iron gratings ...	6,035	These were required in connection with several buildings, and were made up at the Sibpur Government Workshops.
Wrought-iron work for sand-excluder.	4,570	These were needed for irrigation works in the Province, and were made up at the Government Workshops at Dehri, Cuttack and Sibpur from imported material worked into its finished shape in this country.
Wrought-iron work for dredger and steamer.	5,250
Wrought-iron work for barges for Bruce's dredger.	5,910
Wrought-iron shutters ...	1,203
Ditto work for shutters.	1,831
Bolts and nuts ...	1,261
Cast-iron pinion for dredgers	2,800
Wrought-iron work for mud punts.	21,574
Brass bolts	3,772
Brass butt hinges ...	1,443	Required for doors and windows in various buildings and made at the Sibpur Workshops.
Bengal pig-iron ...	1,400	Used for cast-iron work done in the Government Workshops.
Rope, coir	2,982	Purchased for use by the Irrigation Department.
Rope, Manila	3,551
Horbury's patent latrines ...	1,182	These were obtained for the Court-house at Darbhanga, Civil Surgeon's house at Chapra and Collector's house at Lahiriasarai (Darbhanga).

Ditto ditto ...	10,954
Iron punts	1,200	These were required for ferry purposes and were made in the Midnapore Workshops from materials obtained from England.
Boilers	5,000	These were for the steam launch Pioneer.

5. The policy prescribed by the Government of India in their Resolution No. 1426S.R. of 25th March 1895, quoted above, continues to receive the attention of the Local Government. The principal firms in Calcutta who were asked to report whether they are able to supply any of the articles mentioned in paragraph 3 of this Resolution, subject to the conditions (a) that they are not imported into India in a finished state, (b) that machinery exists for the application of sufficient tests as to quality and workmanship, and (c) that the price does not exceed the cost at which such articles can be procured through the Secretary of State for India, have done so with the result that certain additions have been made to the list of firms eligible to tender. But the general absence of proper testing appliances is noticeable, and it is hoped that other firms desirous of tendering for Government work will see their way to provide themselves with these very necessary adjuncts to their workshops.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the next issue of the Calcutta Gazette.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Calcutta Trades' Association, and the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. J. JOHNSTONE,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the The Humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean of the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question station in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation. — indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 31st December 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 28TH OF DECEMBER 1895.

FINE settled weather of ordinary north-east monsoon character has again prevailed in Bengal during the week under review, and the meteorological changes which have taken place in Bengal from day to day have usually been small and unimportant up till within the last day or two of the period, when owing to the formation of a cyclonic storm in the extreme south of the Bay conditions in Bengal became rather less settled than they had been. On the 22nd of December, or the first day of the week under review, the barometric changes were exceedingly small, and the distribution of pressure was fairly normal. Temperature was usually falling by small amounts, and the night temperatures were from about 2° to 6° in defect, while the day temperatures were in excess by 1° or 2°. Steady northerly winds were reported over the whole province, the sky was practically cloudless, and rainfall was entirely absent. On the 23rd both pressure and temperature were rising slowly, but otherwise there was no change in conditions. On the 24th a slow fall of pressure set in, but the temperature changes were irregular. On the 25th pressure again fell slowly, but temperature also fell; on the 26th pressure began to rise, while the temperature changes again became irregular; on the 27th the pressure changes were irregular, and at all the southern stations a fall was reported, while at the northern stations pressure was rising; temperature on the other hand had generally increased briskly, though the night temperatures were still in defect. On the 28th, or the last day of the week, pressure had fallen moderately over the whole province, and both temperatures and humidity were increasing briskly. Conditions, however, over the greater part of Bengal still remained of ordinary north-east monsoon character up to the close of the week.

From about the 25th instant, however, conditions began to change in the Bay. On the morning of that day wind velocity at 8 A.M. at Diamond Island had increased to 30 miles an hour, but generally over the Bay conditions did not point to any disturbance forming. On the 26th the average velocity of the north-east winds at Diamond Island had equalled 22 miles an hour, and the 8 A.M. velocity was 34 miles, or a moderate gale, and conditions seemed to point to disturbed conditions in the south-east of the Bay. On the 27th at the same station the average wind velocity had again increased to 27 miles an hour, and at 8 A.M. it equalled the large amount of 38 miles, while at the same time pressure was falling slowly along the Madras Coast and in Ceylon. Hence it was certain there was an area of squally or stormy weather existing in the extreme south or south-east of the Bay. On the 28th a fall of pressure exceeding a tenth of an inch occurred at the stations on the South Madras Coast; wind velocities also increased rapidly in the south of the Bay, and winds were probably more or less cyclonic in direction. Hence a cyclonic storm, though perhaps of not very definite nature, existed in the extreme south-west of the Bay on this day, the centre being probably to the east of Ceylon. The storm was giving very heavy rain along the Madras Coast and in Ceylon, and its influence was felt as far north as Orissa, where skies became overcast on the 28th, while the squally weather extended well into the centre of the Bay. This storm afterwards drifted in a westerly direction across the extreme south of the Peninsula and over Ceylon. As the storm was rather widespread, it even influenced the weather to a small extent in South Bengal, and on the 28th temperature and humidity were increasing rather rapidly, while the amount of cloud had also increased considerably, showing that conditions were somewhat unusual and disturbed.

The occurrence of a storm in the Bay at the end of December is most unusual. During the present century no single instance of the occurrence of a storm in the Bay in the second half of December has ever been recorded, and it has been hitherto accepted that the storm or cyclone season in the Bay, and even in the extreme southern part of it, ceases on the 15th of December. This, however, has now been shown to be incorrect.

Pressure.—Notwithstanding the formation of a storm in the extreme south of the Bay at the end of the week, the mean pressure in Bengal has been in very distinct excess. At many of the western stations the excess has equalled 0·04", but in South-East and East Bengal it has generally only averaged about 0·01" or 0·02".

Temperature.—The night temperatures have been unusually low almost throughout the week, though the day temperatures have been in slight excess, or more nearly normal. The average mean temperature of the whole province for the week has been no less than 1·7° below the normal. The actual average temperatures registered in the province and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given:—

(2) He will also estimate for the receipts and charges of the Fund in the usual way, and submit such estimates along with his other estimates to the Accountant-General, who will deal with them like other estimates in accordance with the budget rules.

(3) The estimates will include any contribution required from Provincial Revenues but such contribution cannot be drawn and credited to the Fund, except with the authority of the Accountant-General under special orders of Government in each case.

4. Subject to the provisions of section 3A, the power to fine chaukidars departmentally under section 38 is vested in the District Magistrate. A copy of every order passed under section 8 or 38 by any officer to whom the District Magistrate has delegated his powers under section 3A, shall be forwarded at once to the District Magistrate. On receipt thereof the particulars shall be entered in Register A prescribed by rule 8.

5. An appeal from any order imposing a fine under section 8 or 38 and passed by any officer other than the District Magistrate shall lie to the District Magistrate if lodged within 30 days from the date on which such order was communicated to the panchayat or chaukidar fined. Subject to the provisions of section 64, no appeal shall lie from any such order passed by the District Magistrate.

6. (a) All fines imposed under sections 8 and 38, and penalties imposed under section 27, and realised by a tahsildar appointed under section 46A, shall, on realisation, be at once deposited in the District or Subdivisional Treasury to the credit of the District Chaukidari Reward Fund by means of duplicate chalans.

(b) Penalties under section 27 realised by panchayats should be entered in their Register II (as prescribed by Rule VIII of the rules issued in the notification of the 12th April 1887), and sent at the close of each quarter to the officer in charge of the police-station, who will grant a receipt for the amount and deal with it under the preceding clause of this rule.

7. The Treasury Officer will retain one of the chalans and return the other, duly receipted, to the official depositing the money, who will forward it, together with the fine statements prescribed by rule 9, for entry in the accounts of the Fund.

8. Two registers, A and B, in the forms given in the appendix, shall be kept in the office of the District Magistrate (or of the District Superintendent of Police) showing the details of the operation of the above rules.

9. One clear week before the date fixed for the quarterly payment of chaukidars' salaries, the District Magistrate shall send to the officer in charge of each police-station a consolidated statement showing the fines recoverable from the chaukidars of such station. The officer in charge thereof shall thereupon at the time of the payment of salaries realise such fines and forward them under duplicate chalans for credit in the District or Subdivisional Treasury, together with any sums received by him from panchayats or tahsildars as penalties levied under section 27 of the Act. On receipt from the treasury of the duplicate chalans referred to in rule 7, he will return them, with the fine statement above mentioned, to the Magistrate with an explanation of his inability to recover any particular fine, or part thereof.

10. (a) The only officers authorised to grant rewards to chaukidars are District Magistrates, Subdivisional Magistrates, and District Superintendents of Police.

(b) Such rewards should not ordinarily exceed the sum of Rs. 5, but the District Magistrate may, if the state of the Chaukidari Reward Fund justifies it, sanction a reward of not more than Rs. 25. For any amount exceeding Rs. 25 the sanction of the Commissioner should be obtained.

(c) Rewards should, wherever possible, be paid by the District Superintendent in person, and in his absence by an officer not lower in rank than an Inspector. They should, as a rule, be presented at chaukidari parades, and in all cases with as much publicity as possible.

Fifteen days from the last day of each quarter the office of the District Magistrate (or of the District Superintendent of Police) shall prepare, in the form marked (C) in the appendix, an abstract account of the transactions of the Chaukidari Reward Fund during the said quarter. Such account shall be audited and compared with the Treasury accounts by an officer nominated for the purpose by the District Magistrate, to whom the result of such audit shall be duly certified. The abstract account shall also be checked and compared with the memorandum showing the balances and accounts of the Fund which the Accountant-General furnishes each quarter to the Administrator of the Fund.

6. (1) Subject to any extension of time that the Local Government may see fit to grant, the Promoters shall substantially commence the construction of the said tramway within three calendar months from the date of the original Order which this Order supersedes, and shall complete and equip the same in every respect for opening and working for traffic to the satisfaction of the Local Government within two years from the date of that Order.

7. The tramway authorised by this Order is a single line, with necessary passing places running along its own alignment from the town of Tarkessur to the East Indian Railway station of Mugra, within the district of Hooghly. The line will start from a point about 16 feet north from the edge of the platform of the Tarkessur station of the Tarkessur Railway, and will run to Gopinagar, about 3 miles, and thence to Dasghara, 6 miles north of Tarkessur, passing along the ridge to the west of the villages Chowtara and Barna. After Dasghara, near which the Kana Damodar will be crossed with a girder bridge of one 40 feet span resting on masonry abutments, the line will run eastward to the south side of the well-known hât of Dhaniakhali at about the 11th mile, and thence to the village of Basua (Rameswarbati) at about the 13th mile, passing through the villages of Bunpur and Ghazipur. Near Bunpur the Kana Nadi will be crossed with a girder bridge of one 40 feet span resting on masonry abutments. From Basua the line will take a north-easterly direction, will cross the river Ghea at Kanajuli with three spans (girder) of 40 feet each resting on masonry abutments and piers. After crossing the Ghea, the line will run in a northerly direction and after skirting the village Majinan will reach Gopalpur, at 16¼ mile, which is the site selected for serving the important village of Bhastara and its neighbourhood. From Gopalpur the line will run eastward skirting the south side of Dwarbasinee (at 21½ mile) to Mahanad (at 23¾ mile). From the latter place the line will continue to run eastward over the high waste land known as Jamai Jangal up to the 28th mile, where it will leave the Jangal and, taking a north-easterly direction, cross the East Indian Railway line through its bridge No. 102 about ½ a mile on the up side from its Mugra station, and reach that station by a curve passing through the well-known gunj of Mugra and across the river Kunti.

8. The Promoters may, at their option, construct at their own cost, for the purposes of the tramway, bridges of such design and in such manner as shall first be approved of by an Engineer or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall complete the same to the satisfaction of the said officer.

Stations other than crossing stations will be worked as flag stations showing hand signals only, viz., flags by day and the two colours of the lamp at night.

In thick, foggy, or tempestuous weather detonator signals shall be used in addition to the ordinary day and night signals, and all signals in use on the tramway shall be constructed, worked and used in accordance with such orders as may be prescribed, from time to time, by the Local Government.

N.B.—The angle of curvature is taken as the angle at the centre subtended by an arc of one hundred feet in length. Thus the radius for a one-degree curve is 5,729·578 feet.

The maximum angle of curvature should only be worked to in special cases where the adoption of an easier curve would be impracticable or involve considerable extra expense. Under very exceptional circumstances, where it may appear necessary that this rule should be relaxed, the matter should be referred to the Government of India for orders.

The maximum angles of curvature given above do not apply to curves in station yards.

II.—BALLAST AND PERMANENT-WAY.

Ballast—

(1) Minimum width of ballast at rail level ... ... 6 feet.

(3) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure in the vicinity of a passenger platform (but not on a platform), within a height of 10 feet from rail level ... 8 „

N.B.—This rule does not apply to point levers between tracks, to water cranes, or to loading gauges.

(4) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of tracks to any structure not in the vicinity of a passenger platform, from platform level, if any, or from 1 foot above rail level if there be no platform, to a height of 9 feet 6 inches above rail level ... ... 7 „

N.B.—Under the last entry, coal or any material stacked by the side of any track is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

A projecting overhanging roof is permissible in the case of a goods shed on a siding, if such roof extends over the centre of the track at a height of not less than 12 feet above rail level.

(1) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure, out of stations, from 1 foot above rail level to a height of 9 feet 6 inches above rail level. (See diagram No. 2) ... ... 6 feet.

N.B.—Under this entry any material stacked by the side of the line is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

Where the line is on a curve the horizontal distance of a fixed structure from the centre of adjacent track is to be increased as follows:—

For a curve of 12 degrees (477½ feet rad.) allow 8 in. extra,
" " 8 " (716 " " 5½ "

N.B.—A point handle may not, in any position be within seven feet of the centre line of nearest track; a clear distance of seven feet is also to be preserved from centre of nearest track to any part of the point apparatus, fixed or moveable, above rail level. An arrangement involving the placing of a point handle between tracks should be avoided as far as practicable; but where this arrangement is adopted, the point handle must work parallel with the rails, not at right angles thereto.

Accommodation—

(6) Minimum clear available length of through siding at any road-side station which may be used as a crossing station ... ... 600 feet.

N.B.—The 'available length' of siding (whether the line be curved or straight) terminates where the distance between the centre line of the siding and the centre line of an adjacent track begins to be less than 10 feet.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India. By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L.; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called "The Calcutta Electric Lighting Act, 1895";

(2) And it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of the Governor General.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "Calcutta" shall have the meaning assigned to it in the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act (B.C.) 1888.

(b) "company" means any body of persons, corporate or unincorporate.

(c) "electricity" means electricity, electric current, or any like agency.

(d) "electric line" means a wire conductor, or other means used for the purpose of conveying, transmitting or distributing electricity with any casing, coating, covering, tube, pipe or insulator, enclosing, surrounding or supporting the same, or any part thereof, or any apparatus connected therewith for the purpose of conveying, transmitting or distributing electricity.

(e) "local authority" means the Corporation of Calcutta, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, and every other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund.

(f) "street" includes any square, court or alley, highway, lane, road, thoroughfare, or public passage or place, within the area in which the undertakers are authorised to supply electricity by any license granted under this Act.

(g) "telegraph," "telegraph line," "telegraph authority," shall have the meaning assigned to them respectively in the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885.

(h) "undertakers" shall mean any company or person authorised by any license granted under this Act to supply electricity within any area.

(i) "works" shall include electric lines, also any buildings, machinery, engines, works, matters or things of whatever description required to supply electricity, and to carry into effect the object of the undertakers under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

License and Rules.

Granting of licenses authorising the supply of electricity.

3. The Local Government may from time to time license any company or person to supply electricity under this Act for any purpose within any specified area of Calcutta, subject to the following provisions:—

(i) The consent of every local authority, having jurisdiction within the area or any part of the area within which a supply is licensed to be furnished, shall be required to the application for a license, which consent such local authority is hereby authorised to give, with such conditions (if any) as, subject to the approval of the Local Government, the local authority may prescribe:

Provided that if the Local Government is satisfied, after due enquiry, and having regard to all the circumstances of the case, that the local authority has for no sufficient reason withheld its consent, the Local Government may nevertheless grant the license.

(ii) A license granted under this Act shall be for any period not exceeding twenty-one years, but may, at or after the expiry of such license, be renewed from time to time for a like period with such consent as above mentioned upon such terms and conditions as the Local Government may determine.

(iii) Every company or person applying for a license under this Act shall publish notice of their application by public advertisement in such manner and including such particulars as the Local Government may from time to time direct or approve; and such license shall not be granted by the Local Government until after the expiration of a period of three months from the date of the first publication of such advertisement, nor until opportunity has been given to all parties interested to make representations or objections to the Local Government with reference to the application.

(iv) Such license may make such regulations as to the limits within which and the conditions under which a supply of electricity is to be compulsory or permissive, and for enforcing the performance by the licensees of their duties in relation to such supply and for the revocation of the license,

where the licensees fail to perform such duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Local Government may think expedient.

(v) The grant of a license to any undertakers to supply electricity within any area for any purpose, shall not in any way hinder or restrict the granting of any license to any other company or person within the same area for a like purpose.

Power of Local Government to make rules and to cancel them.

4. (1) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, from time to time, to make, and, when made, to alter or repeal rules not inconsistent with this Act—

No. 1 of 1896.

A Bill to amend the Criminal Tribes Act, 1871.

(2) For every reformatory settlement for children established under sub-section (1) a Superintendent shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(3) The Superintendent of a reformatory settlement for children shall be deemed to be the guardian within the meaning of Act No. XIX of 1850 (concerning the binding of apprentices), of every child detained in such settlement; and such Superintendent may, if he shall think fit, and subject to any rules which the Local Government may make in this behalf, apprentice such child under the provisions of the aforesaid Act."

4. For section 19 of the said Act the following section shall be substituted, namely:— Act XXVII, 1871.

Substitution of new section for section 19,

Addition of two new sections after section 19, Act XXVII, 1871.

5. After section 19 of the said Act the following sections shall be added, namely :—

[Cf. section 75 of Act XLV of 1860 and section 348 of Act X of 1882.]

Whoever, being a member of any tribe, gang or class which has been declared criminal, and having been convicted of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment of either description for a term of three years or upwards, shall be guilty of any offence punishable under either of those chapters with imprisonment of either description for a term of three years or upwards, shall, in the absence of special reason to the contrary, to be specified in the judgment of the Court, be punished, on conviction for the second time of any such offence, with rigorous imprisonment for a term of not less than seven years, and, on conviction for the third time of any such offence, with transportation for life.

XLV of 1860.

Punishment for members of criminal tribe found under suspicious circumstances.

"19B. Whoever, being a member of any tribe, gang or class which has been declared criminal, is found in any place under such circumstances as to satisfy the Court that he was about to commit, or aid in the commission of, theft or robbery, or that he was waiting for an opportunity to commit theft or robbery, shall be punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

Repeal of certain portions of Act XXVII of 1871.

6. The following portions of the said Act are hereby repealed, namely :—

(a) in section 7, the words "or any part thereof," "or of any part thereof" and "or any part of it;"

(b) in section 8, the words "or of such portion thereof as is directed to be registered;"

(c) in section 14, the words "or any part thereof;"

(d) in section 15, the words "or such part thereof as is to be so settled or removed;" and

(e) in section 17, the words "or any part thereof."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make in the law relating to the control of criminal tribes certain amendments which experience of the depredations of, in particular, the Sansiahs of the North-Western Provinces has shown to be very necessary. The Criminal Tribes Act (XXVII of 1871) already contains provisions of considerable severity; but it is thought that the altogether exceptional circumstances of the case are such as to justify still more drastic measures in order to strengthen the hands of the Government in coercing and, if possible, reforming the members, and more especially the rising generation, of such tribes, composed as they in fact are of criminals of the worst type, whose only occupation is crime.

2. Section 2 of the Bill proposes to add after section 1 of Act XXVII of 1871 an additional section defining the words "tribe, class or gang" so as to make it clear that the provisions of the following sections may be applied to a portion, as well as to the whole, of a tribe. Certain consequential but purely verbal amendments are made by section 6 of the Bill.

3. As the law at present stands, it is open to question whether the children of a proclaimed criminal tribe can be sent to a reformatory settlement otherwise than with their parents' consent or as a punishment for breach of discipline. The additional provision which section 3 of the Bill purports to insert after section 17 of the Criminal Tribes Act, 1871, takes power to remove at discretion such children from their parents' control, to detain them in a reformatory settlement with a view to their more effectual reformation, and to apprentice them under the provisions of Act XIX of 1850 so as to prevent their returning after discharge to their former surroundings and almost certainly relapsing into crime.

4. By section 4 of the Bill it is proposed to substitute for section 19 of the Act a new section providing specially severe penalties for the contravention of such of the rules made thereunder as are directed against absconding from a reformatory settlement.

5. The first of the new provisions contemplated by section 5 of the Bill is based upon section 75 of the Indian Penal Code, but fixes yet severer penalties in the case of members of a proclaimed tribe convicted more than once of certain heinous offences, and further provides that the enhanced punishments specified shall ordinarily be inflicted on such incorrigible offenders. The remaining provision is intended to go beyond section 401 of the Indian Penal Code by rendering any member of a proclaimed criminal tribe who is found under such circumstances as to satisfy the Court that he was about to commit, or aid in the commission of, theft or robbery, or was awaiting an opportunity to commit theft or robbery, liable to the same punishment as is prescribed by that section.

A Bill to amend the Indian Emigration Act, 1883.

XXI of 1883. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Emigration Act, 1883; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 105, Act XXI, 1883.

1. In section 105, sub-section (t), of the said Act, for the words "under a contract" the words "under, or with a view to entering into, an agreement" shall be substituted.

Addition of new section after section 105, Act XXI, 1883.

2. After section 105 of the said Act the following section shall be added, namely:—

Power to declare whole or part of Act and rules inapplicable to Natives of India engaged for Her Majesty's Government to labour for hire in any country beyond the sea.

"106. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare that all or any of the provisions of this Act or the rules thereunder shall not apply, or shall apply subject to such conditions, modifications or restrictions as to the Governor General in Council may seem expedient, in the case of Natives of India departing out of British India under an agreement made with, or on behalf of, Her Majesty's Government to labour for hire in any country beyond the sea:

Provided that no notification under this section shall be issued unless the Governor General in Council is first satisfied that the fair treatment of Natives of India so departing out of British India has, by rules or otherwise, duly been secured.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE attention of the Government of India has recently been directed to a case in which some Natives of India were induced to quit British territory by land, to proceed to a foreign port and there to enter into agreements to labour for hire in East Africa, to which country emigration is unlawful It being uncertain whether there existed at the time of departure from British India any agreement to emigrate to East Africa, a doubt arises as to the applicability of section 105 of the Indian Emigration Act (XXI of 1883) to such a case, and the object of section 1 of this Bill is to remove similar doubt for the future.

2. It is at the same time deemed desirable to facilitate as much as possible the recruitment of Indian labourers for employment under favourable circumstances beyond the sea, as, for example, on the Uganda Railway, and it is thought that the restrictions imposed by Act XXI of 1883 may well be removed when the employer abroad is Her Majesty's Government and the Government of India can readily satisfy themselves that fair treatment will be secured for the employés. By section 2 of the Bill, therefore, it is proposed to take power for the Governor General in Council to declare all or any of the provisions of the Act and the rules thereunder inapplicable in such cases.

The 2nd January, 1896.

J. WOODBURN.

S. HARVEY JAMES,
Secretary to the Government of India.

NEW ZEALAND, North Island—Manukau harbour.

Alterations in South channel and in North head beacon lights.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 668 of 1895) that, owing to the extension of the shore bank westward of South head, Manukau harbour, the northern of the three beacons on North head has become useless as a leading mark, and the beacon has consequently been removed and the light (fixed white), previously shown from it, discontinued.

There are now therefore only two leading beacons on North head, each showing a fixed white light.

Also, that the north end of Emma bank has extended to the eastward, and the two beacons on North head in line lead over the edge of that bank.

Vessels entering Manukau harbour by South channel should keep the beacons on North head in line until Kaitaraki point is open of South head, and then bring the northern of those two beacons well open eastward of the southern one.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least ·10 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 7th January 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 4TH OF JANUARY 1896.

At the close of the previous week the main feature of meteorological interest was the existence of a cyclonic storm or an area of stormy disturbed weather in the extreme south of the Bay. It was, however, too far distant to materially affect the weather in Bengal. On the 28th, or the last day of the previous week, the small storm or stormy area was probably to the east of the extreme south of the Peninsula and Ceylon, and its centre was probably to the south-east of Negapatam, while it was advancing in a westerly direction. The small storm on the morning of the 29th instant was apparently more to the westward than on the 28th, and it was to the south of the Peninsula, while on the 30th it had again advanced westwards, and was probably in the Arabian Sea. It gave rather heavy weather in the south-west of the Bay for one or two days, when stormy weather with heavy squalls was reported, while also heavy general rain was received and several stations registered about five inches of rain and upwards.

In Bengal conditions remained to a great extent unaffected by the disturbance in the south of the Bay. A brisk fall of pressure, however, with a distinct increase of temperature occurred on the 29th, or the first day of the week under review, but on the 30th pressure was recovering. A distinct increase in the cloud proportion, however, occurred on the 30th and 31st, probably due to the gradual advance northwards of slightly disturbed conditions due to the storm, and on the latter date also pressure was increasing by small amounts. On 1st January, however, the sky began to clear again, though a brisk fall of pressure occurred, while the temperature changes were small and variable. On the 2nd the effects of the disturbed weather had apparently quite passed away, and skies again became cloudless over practically the whole of the province, while a small increase of pressure and moderate decrease of temperature had occurred. The changes of temperature and pressure on the 3rd were of no importance, but on this date pressure was still in decided defect, and temperatures in moderate defect, though this defect was entirely confined to the night temperatures, which were from about 2° to 6° below the normal, while the maximum or day temperatures were about 1° to 2° in excess. On the 4th instant pressure had risen briskly, and was in distinct excess, while the mean temperature was usually about 1° to 2° in defect.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been slightly below the normal at the great majority of stations. A few stations in Bihar and in the west of the province, however, have registered very small excess amounts. The variations were, however, slightly irregular in amount, though in the great majority of cases they have not exceeded 0·01" or 0·015."

Temperature.—The average mean temperature has been in very slight excess in Bihar and East Bengal, but in other divisions usually defective temperatures have been registered, the defects being largest in Orissa and North Bengal. For the whole province the average mean temperature has been in defect of the normal by 0·4°.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given :—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about ⊖ 2·3 lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of th Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PART I.

CHAPTER I.

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called "The Calcutta Electric Lighting Act, 1895";

(2) And it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette, with the assent of the Governor General.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "Calcutta" shall have the meaning assigned to it in the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act (B.C.) 1888.

(b) "company" means any body of persons, corporate or unincorporate.

(c) "electricity" means electricity, electric current, or any like agency.

(d) "electric line" means a wire conductor, or other means used for the purpose of conveying, transmitting or distributing electricity with any casing, coating, covering, tube, pipe or insulator, enclosing, surrounding or supporting the same, or any part thereof, or any apparatus connected therewith for the purpose of conveying, transmitting or distributing electricity.

(f) "street" includes any square, court or alley, highway, lane, road, thoroughfare, or public passage or place, within the area in which the undertakers are authorised to supply electricity by any license granted under this Act.

(g) "telegraph," "telegraph line," "telegraph authority," shall have the meaning assigned to them respectively in the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885.

(h) "undertakers" shall mean any company or person authorised by any license granted under this Act to supply electricity within any area.

(i) "works" shall include electric lines, also any buildings, machinery, engines, works, matters or things of whatever description required to supply electricity, and to carry into effect the object of the undertakers under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

License and Rules.

Granting of licenses authorising the supply of electricity.

3. The Local Government may from time to time license any company or person to supply electricity under this Act for any purpose within any specified area of Calcutta, subject to the following provisions:—

(i) The consent of every local authority, having jurisdiction within the area or any part of the area within which a supply is licensed to be furnished, shall be required to the application for a license, which consent such local authority is hereby authorised to give, with such conditions (if any) as, subject to the approval of the Local Government, the local authority may prescribe:

Provided that if the Local Government is satisfied, after due enquiry, and having regard to all the circumstances of the case, that the local authority has for no sufficient reason withheld its consent, the Local Government may nevertheless grant the license.

(ii) A license granted under this Act shall be for any period not exceeding twenty-one years, but may, at or after the expiry of such license, be renewed from time to time for a like period with such consent as above mentioned upon such terms and conditions as the Local Government may determine.

(iii) Every company or person applying for a license under this Act shall publish notice of their application by public advertisement in such manner and including such particulars as the Local Government may from time to time direct or approve; and such license shall not be granted by the Local Government until after the expiration of a period of three months from the date of the first publication of such advertisement, nor until opportunity has been given to all parties interested to make representations or objections to the Local Government with reference to the application.

(iv) Such license may make such regulations as to the limits within which and the conditions under which a supply of electricity is to be compulsory or permissive, and for enforcing the performance by the licensees of their duties in relation to such supply and for the revocation of the license,

where the licensees fail to perform such duties, and generally may contain such regulations and conditions as the Local Government may think expedient.

(v) The grant of a license to any undertakers to supply electricity within any area for any purpose, shall not in any way hinder or restrict the granting of any license to any other company or person within the same area for a like purpose.

Power of Local Government to make rules and to cancel them.

4. (1) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, from time to time, to make, and, when made, to alter or repeal rules not inconsistent with this Act—

(a) in relation to applications for licenses and the payments to be made in respect thereof; or

(b) in relation to the publication of notices and advertisements under this Act; or

(d) in relation to the holding of local inquiries in such cases as it may think advisable; and

(e) for the purpose of generally carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) The Local Government shall, before making, altering or repealing rules under this section—

(a) publish a draft of the proposed rules and alterations and a notification of the proposed repeals in the Calcutta Gazette; and

(b) specify a date not less than two months from the date of publication, at or after which such draft and notification will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Local Government shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to such draft and notification before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule so made or altered, and every repeal of any such rule under this section, shall be thereafter published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Conditions to be inserted in licenses.

5. (1) The undertakers shall be subject to such regulations and conditions as may be inserted in any license under this Act affecting their undertaking with regard to the following matters:—

(a) the limits within which and the conditions under which a supply of electricity is to be compulsory or permissive;

(b) the securing a regular and efficient supply of electricity;

(c) the securing the safety of the public from personal injury, or from fire, or otherwise;

(d) the limitation of the prices to be charged in respect of the supply of electricity;

(e) the authorising inspection and enquiry from time to time by such officer as the Local Government may from time to time appoint in that behalf;

(f) the enforcement of the due performance of the duties of the undertakers in relation to the supply of electricity by the imposition of penalties or otherwise, and the revocation of the license where the undertakers have, in the opinion of the Local Government, practically failed to carry the powers granted to them into effect within a reasonable time, or discontinued the exercise of such powers; and

(g) generally with regard to any other matters in connexion with such undertakings:

Provided that the Local Government may—

(i) from time to time make such regulations as it may think expedient for securing the safety of the public from personal injury, or from fire, or otherwise; and

(ii) from time to time amend or repeal any regulations or conditions which may be contained in any such license:

Provided always that any regulations or conditions so made or amended by the Local Government shall, from and after the date thereof, have the like effect in every respect as though they had been originally inserted in the license authorising the undertaking:

And provided that every regulation or condition so repealed shall from and after the date thereof be repealed accordingly, but such repeal shall not affect any liability or penalty incurred in respect thereof prior to the date of such repeal or any proceeding or remedy, which might have been had in relation thereto.

PART II.

Streets, &c., not to be broken up except under superintendence.

8. (f) keep the road or pavement which has been so broken up in good repair for three months, after replacing and making good the same, and for such further time, if any, not being more than twelve months in the whole, as the soil so broken up shall continue to subside.

(ii) further forfeit a sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each subsequent day during which any such delay as aforesaid shall continue after they shall have received such notice.

In cases of delay other parties may reinstate and recover the expenses.

11. (1) Whenever any such delay or omission as aforesaid shall occur, the local authority, company or person having the control or management of the street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel, in respect of which such delay or omission shall occur, may cause the work so delayed or omitted to be executed.

(2) The expense of executing the same shall in every case be repaid to such local authority, company or person by the undertakers.

Restriction on breaking up streets, &c.

12. (1) Nothing in this Act shall authorise or empower the undertakers to open or break up any street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel without the consent of the local authority, company, or person, by whom such street, railway, tramway, bridge, sewer, drain or tunnel is repairable, unless in pursuance of special powers in that behalf inserted in the license under this Act or with the written consent of the Local Government.

(2) The Local Government shall not in any case insert any such special powers in any license or give any such consent, until notice has been given to such local authority, company or person by advertisement or otherwise as the Local Government may direct, and an opportunity has been given to such local authority, company or person to state any objections they may have thereto.

Restrictions as to above-ground works.

13. (1) Notwithstanding anything in this Act, the undertakers shall not be authorised to place any electric line above ground, along, over, or across any street without the express consent of the Local Government, and the Local Government may require the undertakers to forthwith remove any electric line placed by them contrary to the provisions of this section, or may cause the same to be removed and recover the expenses of such removal from the undertakers in manner hereinafter specified.

(2) In cases where any such electric line has been placed above ground by such undertakers, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, on complaint made and if of opinion that such electric line is, or is likely to become, dangerous to the public safety, may, notwithstanding any such consent as aforesaid, make an order directing and authorising the removal of such electric line by such person and upon such terms as such Magistrate may think fit.

Power of undertakers to alter position of pipes and wires.

14. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of the license under this Act authorising them to supply electricity, the undertakers may alter the position of any pipes or wires under any street or place authorised to be broken up by them, which may interfere with the exercise of their powers under this Act, on previously making or securing such compensation to the owners of such pipes or wires, and on complying with such conditions as to the mode of making such alterations as may before the commencement of such alterations be agreed upon between the undertakers and owners, or in case of difference as may be determined in manner prescribed by the license authorising the undertakers to supply electricity, or, when no such manner is prescribed, as may be determined by arbitration.

(2) Any local or other public authority, company or person may, in like manner, alter the position of any electric lines or works of the undertakers, being under any such street or place as aforesaid, which may interfere with the lawful exercise of any powers vested in such local or other public authority, company or person in relation to such street or place, subject to the like provisions, conditions and restrictions as are in this section contained with reference to the alteration of the position of any pipes or wires by the undertakers.

Undertakers not to prescribe special form of lamp, &c.

17. The undertakers shall not be entitled to prescribe any special form of lamp or burner to be used by any company or person, or in any way to control or interfere with the manner in which electricity supplied by them under this Act or by reason of any license is used:

Provided that no company or person shall be at liberty to use any form of lamp or burner, or to use the electricity supplied to them for any purpose, or to deal with it in any manner, so as to unduly or improperly interfere with the supply of electricity supplied to any other company or person by the undertakers, and if any dispute or difference arises between the undertakers and any company or person as to the matters aforesaid, such dispute or difference shall be determined by arbitration.

Obligation on undertakers to supply electricity.

18. In cases where a supply of electricity is provided in any part of an area for private purposes, every company or person within that part of the area shall, except in so far as it is otherwise provided by the terms of the license authorising such supply, be entitled, on application, to a supply on the same terms on which any other company or person in such part of the area is entitled under similar circumstances to a corresponding supply.

CHAPTER II.

Charges and Recovery.

Charges for electricity.

19. The undertakers shall not, in making any agreements for a supply of electricity, show any undue preference to any company or person, but, save as aforesaid, they may make such charges for the supply of electricity as may be agreed upon, not exceeding the limits of price imposed by or in pursuance of the license authorising them to supply electricity.

Recovery of charges, &c.

(a) cut off such supply; and

(b) for that purpose cut or disconnect any electric line or other work through which electricity may be supplied; and until such time as such charge or other sum, together with any expenses incurred by such undertakers in cutting off such supply of electricity as aforesaid, are fully paid.

(c) discontinue the supply of electricity to such company or person;

Recovery of rents, &c.

21. If any company or person supplied with electricity or with any electrical meter or fittings by the undertakers neglects to pay to the undertakers the rent due for such electricity, or the rent or money due to the undertakers for the hire or fixing of such meter or fittings, or any expenses lawfully incurred by the undertakers in cutting off the electricity from the premises of such company or person, the undertakers may recover the sum so due with full costs of suit in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Incoming tenants not liable to pay arrears of rent for electricity.

22. In cases where any company or person supplied with electricity by the undertakers leaves the premises where such electricity has been supplied, without paying the electricity rent, or meter rent already due, such undertakers shall not be entitled to require from the next tenant of such premises the payment of the arrears left unpaid by the former tenant, unless such incoming tenant has undertaken with the former tenant to pay or exonerate him from the payment of such arrears.

CHAPTER III.

Electric and Telegraph Lines.

Electric lines, &c., not to be subject to distress in certain cases.

23. Where any electric lines, meters, accumulators, fittings, works or apparatus belonging to the undertakers are placed in or upon any premises not being in the possession of the undertakers for the purpose of supplying electricity under this Act, or by reason of any license under this Act, such electric lines, meters, accumulators, fittings, works or apparatus shall not be subject to distress or to the lessor's remedy for rent of the premises where the same may be, nor be taken in execution under any process of the Civil Court or any proceedings in insolvency against the person in whose possession the same may be.

Provision for the protection of telegraph lines.

24. (1) The undertakers or their agents shall not make any alteration in any telegraph line, except subject to the sanction of the telegraph authority.

(2) The undertakers or their agents shall not, in the exercise of the powers conferred by this Act or by any license, lay down any electric line, or do any other work for the supply of electricity, whereby any telegraph line is, or may be, injuriously affected.

(3) The undertakers or their agents shall, before any such electric line is laid down or work is done within ten yards of any part of a telegraph line, (other than repairs or the laying of connections with mains, where the direction of the electric lines so laid down crosses a telegraph line at right angles at the point of shortest distance, and continues the same for a distance of six feet on each side of such point), not more than twenty-eight, nor less than seven clear days before commencing such works, give written notice to the telegraph authority specifying the course and the nature of the work, including the gauge of any such electric lines.

(4) The undertakers or their agents shall conform with such reasonable requirements, either general or special, as may from time to time be made by the telegraph authority for the purpose of preventing any telegraph from being injuriously affected by the said work.

(5) Any difference arising between the telegraph authority and the undertakers or their agents, with respect to any requirements so made, shall be determined by the Local Government, and the order of the Local Government thereon shall be final.

(6) In the event of any contravention of, or wilful non-compliance with, this section by the undertakers or their agents, such undertakers shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every day during which such contravention or non-compliance continues, or if the telegraphic communication is wilfully interrupted, to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for every day on which such interruption continues:

Provided that nothing in this section shall subject the undertakers or their agents to a fine under this section, if they satisfy the Court trying the case that the immediate execution of the work was required to avoid an accident, or otherwise was a work of emergency, and that they forthwith served on the telegraph authority a notice of the execution of the work, stating the reason for executing the same without previous notice.

(7) For the purposes of this section a telegraphic line shall be deemed to be injuriously affected by a work, if telegraphic communication by means of such line is, whether through induction or otherwise, in any manner affected by such work, or by any use made of such work.

PART III.

CHAPTER I.

Offences.

25. (1) Whoever shall—

Fraudulently using the electricity of the undertakers.

(a) lay or cause to be laid any electric line or other work for the purpose of communicating with any electric line or other work belonging to the undertakers without their consent; or

(b) fraudulently injure any meter employed for ascertaining the quantity of electricity consumed or supplied; or shall pay to the undertakers a sum not exceeding fifty rupees for every such act, and also a sum not exceeding twenty rupees for every day on which such electric line or other work shall so remain, or such improper use shall be continued.

(c) otherwise improperly use the electricity of the undertakers;

(2) The sums so payable as aforesaid shall be recoverable in the manner hereinafter specified.

(3) The undertakers may at once disconnect any electric line or other work so improperly used as aforesaid.

Punishment for injuring works with intent to cut off supply.

26. (1) Whoever unlawfully and maliciously cuts or injures any electric line or work with intent to cut off any supply of electricity shall be liable to be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Punishment for attempt.

(2) Whoever attempts to commit the offence punishable by sub-section (1) or to cause such offence to be committed, and in such attempt does any act towards the commission of the offence, shall be liable to be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both.

Theft of electricity.

(3) Whoever maliciously or fraudulently abstracts, causes to be wasted or diverted, consumes or uses any electricity, shall be guilty of theft within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and punishable accordingly.

Saving of prosecutions.

27. Nothing in this Act shall exempt a person from any liability to be punished for any offence which is punishable under any other Act, or any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Damages, costs and expenses how to be determined.

28. Whenever any sums, damages, costs and expenses are by this Act directed to be paid, the amount, and, if necessary, the apportionment of the same in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction.

Recovery of damages, &c., by distress.

29. (1) If the amount so found to be due, including the costs, be not paid by the party liable to pay the same within seven days after demand, such amount may be recovered, under a warrant of Court, by distress and sale of the moveable property of such party.

(2) The surplus, if any, arising from the sale thereof, after satisfying such amount and the costs of the distress and sale, shall be returned on demand to the party, whose property has been so distrained.

CHAPTER II.

Miscellaneous.

Service of notice by undertakers.

30. (1) Any notice which the undertakers are by this Act or by any license under this Act required to serve upon any person shall be served by being delivered to the person for whom it is intended, or by being left at his usual or last known place of abode, or sent by post addressed to such person.

PACIFIC OCEAN—Solomon Islands.

Shoals on east coast of Mala (Malaita) island.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 685 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals on the east coast of Mala (Malaita) island:—

1. A shoal, apparently coral, on which a sounding of 4¾ fathoms was obtained (possibly there may be less water), lies in the northern entrance to Maramisike passage, with Pyramid island bearing East, distant 1¼ miles; and Annuta island about S. 25° W.

   Approximate position, lat. 9° 16′ S., long. 161° 14′ E.

2. A shoal, on which a sounding of 5 fathoms was obtained, but probably there is less water, lies with South Sister island bearing about W.S.W., distant 2 miles, or approximately in lat. 9° 8′ S., long. 161° 12′ E.

The extent of this shoal is doubtful, and a wide berth should be given to the Sister islands, until the locality has been thoroughly examined.

Also, dated 23rd November 1895, of the undermentioned shoal, south-westward of Dulampiri:—

3. This shoal, now named Rubi shoal, is about 1½ cables in extent east and west, with a depth of about 6 fathoms on it (possibly there may be less water), and deep water close around. It lies N. 79° W., distant 1¼ miles, from El Diamante, or approximately in lat. 12° 20¾′ N., long. 124° 10¼′ E.

PACIFIC OCEAN—ISABELLA, WATERWITCH AND COMBE BANKS.

Banks north-west of Uea or Wallis islands.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 688 of 1895) that the following information respecting the Isabella and other banks in its vicinity, north-west of Uea or Wallis islands, has been received from Lieutenant and Commander J. W. Combe, H. M. Surveying Vessel Waterwitch:—

Isabella bank, on which a depth of 12 fathoms, coral, was found, is circular in shape and about 2 miles in diameter; its centre is approximately in lat. 12° 24′ S., long. 177° 26′ W.

Waterwitch bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 29′ and 12° 34′ South latitude, and the meridians of 176° 41′ and 176° 50′ West longitude, is of atoll-like formation, having a narrow rim of growing coral, with soundings of from 12 to 16 fathoms, all round its outer edge, and depths of 23 to 28 fathoms inside.

Combe bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 24′ and 12° 28′ South latitude, and the meridians of 177° 30′ and 177° 41′ West longitude, is a coral bank with from 14 to 22 fathoms over it. The soundings on this bank were not sufficient to decide whether it is of a similar formation to the Waterwitch bank, but the shoaler soundings are near the outer edge.

All these banks are "steep-to," with soundings of over 100 fathoms near their outer edges

CURRENT.—Whilst the Waterwitch was employed sounding these banks (September 1895) a slight current setting to the west-north-west was experienced. With a fresh trade wind this set was much increased and there was a troublesome sea in the neighbourhood.

Lights in connection with breakwater works.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 696 of 1895) that on 1st November 1895 the red light, previously shown at the extremity of the breakwater wharf, Ahuriri bluff, would be discontinued; and the undermentioned lights would be exhibited from the breakwater works near Ahuriri bluff, Napier:—

1. A red light is shown from a red beacon, at an elevation of 25 feet above high water, in a position 146 feet from the eastern extremity of the breakwater wharf, or about N.-E. ¼ E. (N. 48° E.), nearly 2 cables distant, from the north-east extremity of Ahuriri bluff.

   Approximate position, lat. 39° 28′ 15″ S., long. 176° 57′ 5″ E.

2. A green light, visible from S.E. by S., through east, to E. ¼ N., is shown at an elevation of 25 feet above high water from a green beacon at the extreme of the steamer wharf of the breakwater, or approximately in a position bearing N.-W. ¾ W., distant about six-tenths of a cable from the red light (1).

The above lights or beacons in line, bearing S.-E. ¾ E., lead into the breakwater harbour.

The breakwater now extends about 2 cables beyond the red light or beacon (1), and the extremity of the rubble foundation about 3 cables beyond that light.

Vessels entering Napier harbour by day should keep well outside the breakwater works buoys, and those marking Auckland rocks. By night vessels should be in the white sector of Eastern pier light, bearing S.-W. before losing sight of Ahuriri bluff light, bearing S. by W.

The southern limit of the green light (2), E. ¼ N., passes over the 3 fathoms limit of soundings between the breakwater and the entrance to port Napier.

NOTE.—A chart is in course of preparation, and will shortly be published, showing the breakwater works, &c., in the vicinity of Ahuriri bluff.

THE MONSOON OF 1895.

THE following report is published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,

The 14th January 1896. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

METEOROLOGICAL SUMMARY FOR THE MONSOON PERIOD OF 1895.

THE following summary is intended to give a very brief history of the more important features which have characterized the south-west monsoon period and preceding months of 1895 in Bengal.

January was a month in which the north-east monsoon conditions were fairly normal in character. The mean pressure for the month varied very slightly from the usual amount, and about half the number of stations reported very slight excess pressures, while the other half showed small defects of almost similar amounts. The barometric changes from day to day were also small. The average mean temperature for the month in South-West, East and North Bengal was almost absolutely normal, while Bihar, Chota Nagpur and Orissa showed slight excess temperatures, ranging from about half to one degree. Humidity was usually in excess by from about 5 to 10 per cent., while cloud proportion was in slight defect.

The weather, as is usual in January, was affected by barometric depressions, which pass from North-Western India, and move in a south-easterly direction towards or over Bengal. No less than five of these depressions thus affected the weather in January in the present year, but they were all of a very feeble character, giving very little rain, and they acted mainly only in producing waves of high temperature and humidity over Bengal in front of each depression, while usually a cool wave of short duration followed in the rear. As all the rain in the cold weather months is brought by the action of such depressions, the amount of rain which fell in January was small. Bihar and Chota Nagpur received about four-tenths of an inch, and South-West Bengal and Orissa about a fifth of an inch, but elsewhere the falls were unimportant, and in all divisions the falls were rather largely below the normal amounts.

February was again a month in which the conditions did not vary very largely from the normal. Pressure and temperature were both usually in excess by small amounts: in the former case by about two-hundredths of an inch, and in the latter case generally by amounts of less than a degree. Humidity was also in slight excess, but owing to the continuance of fine weather almost throughout the month, the amount of cloud proportion was unusually small. Only two extremely feeble barometric disturbances visited Bengal during February, and these mainly affected the western districts. The rainfall on the whole was therefore singularly small, and practically confined to the western districts. Orissa received an average fall of nearly an inch, and Bihar and Chota Nagpur of between three and four tenths, but elsewhere there was practically no rain. Orissa received a normal fall, but in all other divisions largely defective falls were recorded.

In March conditions were almost a continuation of those in February. The mean temperature for the month was nearly normal in amount, while pressure was in defect usually by about 0·015″ only. Humidity and cloud proportion were both somewhat in excess. For nearly the first half of the month, weather remained fine and settled, and conditions were those characteristic of the end of the north-east monsoon. In the second half of the month three very feeble barometric depressions affected the Province, during which small local storms, of more or less hot weather type, and usually accompanied by thunder and rain, occurred. They were, however, in the great majority of cases, not very influential in character, and rainfall was comparatively light in all divisions, the heaviest falls being a little over an inch in East Bengal, and rather more than half an inch in North Bengal and Chota Nagpur, while the falls elsewhere were very small. Hence again the rainfall of the whole province for March was largely in defect, and did not average more than about 40 per cent. of the normal amount.

In April the conditions, however, showed a decided change. In the case of pressure there were very large variations from the normal during the month, and for a considerable period the distribution was very unusual. For the first three weeks of April the distribution of pressure was very uniform, and during this period winds were much lighter than usual, but during the last week of the month baric gradients became steep and very strong winds obtained at the head of the Bay and in Bengal. For the whole month the average pressure variation, however, only showed an excess of 0·03 inch. Local thunder storms were very frequent in April, as they were in the latter half of March, but with the same peculiarity, that the rainfall due to them was much lighter than usual.

Owing, however, to the frequent storms, the rainfall was considerable in amount, and hence the rainfall in all districts was larger than the normal quantity, and the actual fall for the province equalled about 185 per cent. of the normal, while in Chota Nagpur the actual fall was more than four times the usual amount. Owing also to the frequent local showers the temperature of April was rather largely in defect, the maximum defect being reported in the western districts, where in some cases it equalled 5°. Humidity and cloud proportion were both in moderate excess during April.

A small cyclonic storm formed in the south or south-west of the Bay on about the 22nd of April, which gradually drifted northwards or north-eastwards, intensifying in its advance, and it finally crossed the coast near Akyab on the night of the 25th, affecting a considerable part of the coast between that station and Chittagong, and giving squally unsettled weather with rain at the head of the Bay and in Lower Bengal. This storm also caused heavy rain in East Bengal, but its effects, however, rapidly passed away, and the moist winds brought up in its rear again retreated southwards.

In May weather was on the whole never seriously disturbed, either in the Bay or in Bengal, though this is one of the months in which fierce cyclones often occur. One very shallow barometric depression formed in the Bay and advanced over Burma and the north-east of the Bay, and another low-pressure area afterwards appeared over Bengal itself, and both gave unsettled weather in Bengal, during which local storms with rain were numerous As the result of these actions the rainfall in East Bengal was in very considerable excess of the normal in May, though in all other divisions the falls were in rather large defect. The variations of pressure during the month were considerable, but on the whole a defect of only 0·01″ was registered. At the beginning of the month, when the province was still under the influence of the small storm which had formed at the end of April, and when the differences of pressure were considerable, strong winds were generally reported in Bengal. Wind velocities, however, then largely fell off, and with the development of comparatively low pressure over the north of the province towards the middle of the month, the whole of the western and south-western districts were strongly affected by hot dry westerly winds, during which period some stations in these areas registered day temperatures from 10° to 16° in excess of the normal values. At the close of the month, under the influence of the depression from the east of the Bay, and which had advanced northwards, the baric gradients became rather steep, and rather strong winds from the Bay were reported in the east of the province. This pressure distribution again caused the hot westerly winds to flow over Orissa, Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal, giving excessive temperatures to those areas, while at the same time the areas in the east and centre of the province, over which the depression was lying, and which areas were receiving rainfall during local storms, showed temperatures rather largely in defect of the normal. Hence there were unusually large variations of temperature from the normal in different districts at different periods of the month, and the average mean temperature of the province for May was about 1° to 2° in excess. In the case of the average humidity and cloud proportion in May there were comparatively small variations from the normal.

The first large advance of monsoon winds in the south of the Bay commenced at the Ceylon stations about the 12th of May, and continued up till the 20th. Soon afterwards these winds became felt in Burma, and unsettled weather which led to strong winds in the north of the Bay slowly developed, but no definite barometric depression or storm was formed, though storms are very frequently formed in front of such advances of strong monsoon winds. These strong monsoon winds then died away, and no further advance occurred during May.

In June during the first half of the month there were few changes of importance. Pressure continued high, and fine weather generally obtained. Local storms with rain occurred, but the falls were considerably below the normal amount in all parts of the province. A barometric depression then began to form in the east of the Bay, and it advanced in a north-westerly direction across the Bay and became well defined not far from the Orissa coast about the 17th. It remained off the Orissa coast for two days, and the centre crossed between False Point and Puri, moving in a westerly direction, about noon on the 19th. With the westerly advance of the depression across the Bay, general monsoon rain began to fall over Bengal, and from about the 16th most stations reported fair amounts of rain, while in some districts the falls commenced even on the 15th. The falls, however, were heaviest in and near the line of advance of the depression, and hence Orissa received heavy rain in June. From this date up to nearly the close of the month conditions remained of monsoon character, though the monsoon current was weak; but on the 26th another barometric depression formed in the east of the Bay, which advanced slowly north-westward and crossed the coast between Saugor Island and Balasore on the 28th, giving again decidedly heavy rain over the extreme south-west of the province. The rainfall in Orissa in June hence equalled the large amount of 18·58 inches, but in all other divisions the falls varied between about six and eight and a half miles. Hence largely defective falls were recorded in North and East Bengal, and moderately defective falls in South-West Bengal and Bihar. Chota Nagpur, on the other hand, received rather more than a normal fall, while in Orissa the fall was more than twice as large as usual. The average pressure during June was in excess by about 0·03 inch, but on the other hand defective temperatures were registered, the defect equalling about 1°. Humidity was nearly normal in amount, while cloud proportion was in slight defect.

In July the monsoon current as a whole was again extremely weak, and the rainfall generally was below the normal, and the rain was to a great extent diverted to the north of the province. Pressure, which in June had been relatively low in the north-west angle of the Bay, became relatively low in July in North Bengal and Assam, over which a shallow depression appeared and existed for some time. A ridge of high pressure also formed in July over the north-west angle of the Bay and neighbouring districts, and hence the monsoon current was deflected towards the north of the province, giving up its rainfall to a considerable extent over this area. Hence while North Bengal in July received between 23 and 24 inches of rain, or more than nine inches in excess, Bihar received nearly fifteen inches of rain, or two and a half inches in excess; and the whole of the remainder of the province received falls very decidedly below the normal. The usual barometric depressions or storms which form in the Bay during the rains were almost absent in July, and only two very feeble depressions of little practical importance were generated. In this month also the variation of the other meteorological elements from the normal was very small, and pressure, temperature, humidity, and cloud proportion were almost equal to the average for the month.

In August the rainfall-bearing current was again extremely feeble over a large part of the province. Weather was unusually settled over the Bay, for though a few barometric depressions did form in or cross the northern part of the Bay, yet these were without exception shallow and unimportant considered as storms. Only one of these depressions, which formed about the middle of the month, deserves record from the fact that after passing from the north-west of the Bay across Orissa, it turned north over Chota Nagpur and broke up against the Himalayas, the track more resembling that of a September storm than one in August. This small depression left a trough of low pressure over the northern districts of the province, and this apparently determined heavy rainfall to this area, and this while Orissa and Bihar received rainfall in August in excess of the normal, all other divisions of the province reported moderately defective falls. The unusual path of the storm noticed was apparently connected with the weakness of the monsoon current, and was a sign of its unusually early withdrawal from the Province, for at the close of August the monsoon current commenced to withdraw from North-Western India and shortly afterwards from Bihar and Bengal, or at a period some ten or fifteen days earlier than usual.

The actual rainfall in August averaged about nine inches in South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, and about twelve to fourteen inches over the remainder of the province, and for the whole province the fall was about 12 per cent. in defect of the normal.

Again in August temperature, humidity, and cloud proportion were nearly normal, while very slightly defective mean pressure was registered.

In September weather was characterised by a partial absence of rainfall in all districts, and this was accompanied for a great part of the month by comparatively cloudless skies, showing that the monsoon current was no longer sweeping over the province with any force. Two small cyclonic storms, however, formed in the monsoon current in the Bay in September, one in the first week and the other in the middle of the third week. The first formed in the centre or east of the Bay and moved in a westerly direction, passing over the Circars, and after its advance inland a strong inrush of moist winds took place over the north-east of the Bay and over East Bengal, and gave rise to very heavy rain in Assam and North Bengal. The second depression began to develop about the 17th, and on the 18th the centre was in the north-west angle of the Bay, and it crossed the coast between Saugor Island and Balasore between the 18th and 19th. It then moved into Chota Nagpur, Bihar, and the North-West Provinces, carrying with it another moderate advance of monsoon winds. The greater part of the rainfall of September was due to these two storms and to the inrush of monsoon winds occurring in their rear, and after the action of the second small storm, the monsoon current slowly and gradually retreated and practically entirely withdrew from the province. The rainfall in September varied from about twelve inches in North Bengal to six inches in South-West Bengal, and was in defect in all divisions, the fall over the whole of Bengal only equalling about 80 per cent. of the normal amount.

In September, owing to the absence of rain and the lightly clouded skies, temperature was in excess by about 1°, while pressure was also in excess by 0·02 inch. Cloud proportion and humidity, on the other hand, were very decidedly smaller than usual.

In October the weather was again distinguished by a comparative absence of rainfall, the deficiency being most marked over the northern half of the province, Bihar receiving an average of only 16 per cent. and North Bengal only 30 per cent. of the normal. Only two short periods of disturbed and rainy weather occurred during the month. The first period was caused by a small cyclonic storm which had generated in the west of the Bay as a barometric depression at the end of September. This storm was apparently formed in front of the retreating south-west monsoon current. At first it moved in a westerly direction towards the Madras coast, and then recurved and advanced in a north and north-easterly direction. On 1st of October the centre was to the south-east of False Point, and on the evening of that day it was near to Saugor Island, and on the morning of the 2nd it was close to Narayanganj. Stormy weather accompanied the advance of the depression or storm over the Bay, and as it passed inland it gave heavy rain to East Bengal, and lighter rain for the first two or three days of October over the remainder of the province. Weather then cleared, and conditions became those of the transition period between the rainy season and the cold weather, and no rain again fell till the last few days of the month.

The second depression or storm of the month was of short duration. It appeared off the Madras coast on the 24th; on the 25th the centre was about east of Madras, and by the 26th it had passed inland between Masulipatam and Nellore. A wave of moisture-laden winds then advanced up the west coast of the Bay and spread over Bengal, causing general but rather light rainfall over the greater part of the province, except over Bihar, from the 26th to the 29th or 30th. The moist air current, caused by the breaking up of the storm, was, however, rapidly withdrawing from the province at the end of the month, and the monsoon rains had then ceased over Bengal. For the whole of Bengal the rainfall of October was only equal to about 69 per cent. of the normal amount, and for a great part of the month also conditions were more like those of the commencement of the north-east monsoon season rather than the end of the south-west monsoon period, and conditions were thus rather abnormal for a considerable part of the month.

The average pressure conditions during October were very nearly normal, but the general temperatures, on the other hand, were in defect by about a degree. Owing to the comparative absence also of the south-west monsoon conditions, and perhaps to the lightness of the rainfall throughout the monsoon, humidity was in moderate defect, while cloud proportion was largely below the normal amount.

The principal features of the monsoon season of 1895 and of the previous months of the year have therefore been as follows:—

1. In the first four months of the year, or in what may be called the pre-monsoon period, the variations of the pressure from the normal were of moderate amount. January was the only month in which the conditions were equal to the average, while in February and April mean excess amounts of about 0·02″ and 0·03″ were registered. In March, on the other hand, a small defect of 0·015″ was registered in the mean pressure.

2. In the same period temperature was almost exactly normal in January and March, while in February an excess usually of less than a degree was registered. April was a month when temperature was very considerably in defect, the deficiency in the mean temperature ranging up to as much as 5° in parts of the western districts.

3. Humidity was in excess in each of the four months, the excess being rather large in January, and moderate in amount in March and April. In the case of cloud proportion defects were registered in January and February, and excess amounts in March and April.

4. The number of cold-weather depressions which appeared over North-Western India and advanced towards Bengal was rather large in January, and small in February and the early part of March. They were, when they reached Bengal, all of extremely feeble character, and only gave slightly disturbed weather with high temperature waves in front of them.

5. The hot season conditions were not very strongly marked until May, and then they became rather more intense than usual.

6. Local hot-weather storms occurred in the second half of March, when they were more numerous than usual. These storms were also very numerous in April, but both in this month and in March they were less influential than in most years, and brought comparatively little rain in the individual storms, though in April the greater number compensated for their lightness.

7. In April one small cyclonic storm was formed in the Bay, and advanced across the Burma coast near Akyab.

8. The rainfall for the first three months of the year was unusually scanty. Thus in January the fall equalled 45 per cent of the normal amount, in February it was 43 per cent., and in March 42 per cent. In April, however, the falls were comparatively heavy, and equalled 145 per cent. of the normal amount.

9. May was an extremely hot month with temperature 1° to 2° in excess, and in the western and south-western districts in particular excessive temperatures were recorded; pressure was, on the other hand, in small defect The rainfall in East Bengal in May was in considerable excess, but in all other divisions small to very considerable defects were registered.

10. In the Bay one small advance of the monsoon winds took place in April, in front of which the Akyab storm was formed. A second advance took place between the 12th and 20th of May, which travelled to near the head of the Bay, and in front of this a diffused disturbance originated, but no definite storm was formed. In June also the monsoon winds again advanced northwards, and from about the 15th formed a depression in the east of the Bay, which then advanced across to the north-west angle, and passed over Orissa about the 17th and 18th. It was due to the advance of this depression, bringing with it the monsoon winds, that the monsoon rains spread over Bengal shortly after the middle of the month.

11. The rains set in over the whole of Bengal from about the 16th of June, and were therefore a few days later than usual. They spread, however, fairly generally within a couple of days, and therefore they advanced over the interior of the province rather more rapidly than usual.

12. The strength of the monsoon current was unusually small throughout; not only did it commence slightly later than usual, but in each month of its existence it gave comparatively light rain, and finally it withdrew from the Province some ten or fifteen days at least before the usual period.

13. The barometric depressions or storms of the rains were very few and on the whole unusually feeble. In June there were two depressions both of no great strength. In July these depressions were almost absent, and only two extremely feeble disturbances were noticed. In August also there were some disturbances, but they were all of an exceedingly weak character. In September there were two small storms of moderate severity, one crossing the coast between Vizagapatam and Masulipatam on the 5th, and a second storm crossing the Bengal coast between Saugor Island and Balasore on the morning of the 19th. In October also two storms occurred—one a depression or small storm moving from the head of the Bay across the Sundarbans between the 1st and 2nd, and later on in the month another depression, or small cyclonic storm, crossed the north Madras coast between the 25th and 26th.

14. The general rainfall of the whole of the province of Bengal in May was 17 per cent. in defect of the normal; in June it was 6 per cent. in defect; in July the fall on the whole was nearly 2 per cent. in excess; in August it was 12 per cent in defect; in September the defect had risen to 21 per cent.; and in October the variation amounted to the very large defect of 31 per cent.

15. The falls during the monsoon were unusually light in all divisions except Orissa, which showed a slight excess. The deficiency of rainfall was most marked in South-West Bengal and next in East Bengal.

16. Pressure was in moderate excess in June and September, and in small defect in August, while in July and October it was almost normal.

17. Temperature was in defect in June and October, normal in July and August, and in excess in September.

18. Humidity and cloud proportion were normal in the first three months of the monsoon season, and in considerable to large defect in both September and October.

19. The following tables give briefly the amounts and variation of the rainfall in each of the six meteorological divisions month by month for the period from the beginning of May to the end of October :—

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1895.

THE most important features in the meteorology of December 1895 have been :—

1. The retreat of the south-west monsoon current in the Bay in December was attended with the formation of two storms. The first of these was a small cyclonic storm, but of decidedly severe nature, which generated in the south-east of the Bay probably on about the 9th instant. It subsequently advanced north-westwards towards the Ganjam coast, and when near Gopalpore recurved and advanced in a north-easterly direction into the north-east angle of the Bay, passing inland on the morning of the 12th a little to the west of Chittagong, and it afterwards broke up in the Sylhet and Cachar Hills. The second storm, or perhaps area of stormy weather, commenced on about the 25th instant, in the extreme south or south-east of the Bay, and then advanced westwards, passing over the extreme south of the Peninsula and Ceylon and over the sea area to the south on the 29th instant, and it afterwards advanced over the Arabian sea and disappeared.

2. The occurence of storms in the Bay in December is decidedly rare. Hitherto no storm has advanced from the south of the Bay into the north-east angle in the middle of this month, and during the present century no storm has been known to form in the Bay of Bengal in the second half of December. Hence the meteorology of December 1895 has been practically unique in these two respects.

3. The weather over the whole of Bengal was largely affected by the first storm, but the second storm was too far distant to do more than cause a rather considerable increase in the cloud proportion and in temperature and humidity.

4. On the other hand the number of barometric depressions or cold-weather storms appearing in North-Western India in December 1895 was unusually small, and the depressions themselves were feeble, and only one or two of them were sufficiently influential to cause slight disturbance to the weather in Bengal, and these disturbed conditions only brought a few unimportant showers to the western and northern stations of the province.

5. On the whole the weather in Bengal in December was therefore fine and settled and of the ordinary north-east monsoon character, and for by far the greater part of the month the cold-weather conditions were rather strongly developed. Very disturbed conditions, however, existed from about the 10th to the 13th during the first storm, and very slightly disturbed conditions for a couple of days nearly at the close of the month, in connection with the second storm, but for the remaining periods weather was generally fine with almost cloudless skies.

6. Rather heavy rain was received in East Bengal, where the fall has been about four times the normal amount. Small amounts of rain have been received in Bihar, where the fall has been little more than half the normal. Orissa on the other hand has been rainless, while the divisions of South-West and North Bengal and Chota Nagpur have received light showers, which have averaged only a few hundredths of an inch, and are hence quite unimportant.

7. The mean pressure for the month has been in small defect at almost all stations. The defect has naturally been largest at the stations in South-East Bengal, through which district the small cyclonic storm passed, and it has here equalled from 0·025″ to 0·033″. Over the remainder of Bengal the defect has usually only equalled a few thousandths of an inch. In Assam also the defect has only averaged 0·009″.

8. The average mean temperature of the month has been in defect by 0·6°, and this defect has been fairly equally distributed except in North Bengal, where an almost normal temperature has been recorded.

9. Humidity has, if anything, been in very slight excess, for out of eighteen stations eight have shown slightly defective amounts and ten slight excesses. Cloud proportion on the other hand has been more generally in excess, as about two-thirds of the reporting stations have registered amounts in excess of the normal and only one-third defective amounts.

Fine settled weather of ordinary north-east monsoon character prevailed over Bengal at the commencement of the month, but slightly unsettled conditions were setting in over North-Western India. On the 2nd instant, pressure had fallen moderately in Bengal, though it was still above the normal, while temperature was also falling slowly, and the mean temperature was still usually about 2° to 4° in excess. Fine weather still prevailed on the morning of the 2nd in Bengal, but conditions over North-Western India, and probably over the Himalayas, were distinctly disturbed. On the 3rd this slightly unsettled weather had travelled eastward and southward, and light showers were reported in Bihar and North Bengal and in parts of Chota Nagpur, and also at some stations in the hills. A further brisk fall of pressure had occurred over the whole of Bengal, and pressure was in defect by small to moderate amounts, but temperature had risen moderately, and was in decided excess. Conditions continued slightly unsettled on the 4th, and again a few rain showers were reported in the same districts as on the 3rd, but pressure was commencing to rise, showing the disappearance of the disturbed conditions from Bengal, while a brisk fall of temperature had occurred. Though conditions were thus becoming more settled in Bengal, a fresh disturbance was affecting North-Western India. On the 5th the changes of temperature and pressure in Bengal were small, and conditions remained settled except in the hills, where Gnatong reported a snowstorm, while the disturbance over North-Western India had passed away or broken up after giving hail and snow in the Panjab Himalayas. On the 6th pressure was rising slowly in Bengal, while the temperature changes were variable, and weather was fine and settled except in the hills, where again Gnatong reported a snowstorm. On the 7th the pressure changes were small, but usually a fall had occurred. Temperature, however, was falling briskly to rapidly owing perhaps to the snow which had been previously falling in the Himalayas, and at the great majority of stations, except a few in the extreme west and south-west of the province, mean temperature below the normal was registered. On the 8th also conditions were of ordinary north-east monsoon character, and there were no changes of importance.

The meteorology of the period from the 9th to the 13th was very remarkable from the fact that a small cyclonic storm formed in the Bay and advanced over a curved path into South-East Bengal. No similar storm at this late season of the year is on record. Indeed, during the present century only ten storms have been known to form in the Bay during December, and no single storm has ever been observed in the latter half of the month. All the storms hitherto recorded have also advanced in a more or less westerly direction towards the Coromandel coast, usually crossing the coast line to the south of Madras. The great majority of the storms have also been fierce cyclones and usually of rather large size. Hence the occurrence of a storm nearly in the middle of the month, and of small size, but fierce, and which has advanced from the south-east of the Bay over the large part of the Bay area into Bengal is almost unique.

From about the 8th instant conditions in the east and south-east of the Bay were somewhat abnormal. Pressure was in considerable defect over the whole of Bengal and over the Bay, the defect ranging up to the large amount of a tenth of an inch at some of the Burma stations. On the 9th pressure had again fallen over almost the whole area, the fall being largest in the east of the Bay, and pressure became in defect by amounts ranging up to 0·15″ at Diamond Island. Winds also commenced to strengthen on this morning at the Burma stations, while skies were becoming rather heavily clouded all round the Bay and at some of the Bengal stations. It was therefore probable that disturbed squally and unsettled weather was commencing in the south-east of the Bay, though perhaps the observations might equally well have pointed to the existence of a storm in the south-east of the Bay to the south-west of Diamond Island, which was beginning to advance northwards up the Bay. On the 10th pressure was rising in Burma and falling elsewhere over the Bay and in Bengal, and the observations pointed to the fact that the area of disturbed, squally and unsettled weather was moving across the Bay in a north-westerly direction, though again no certain indications could be obtained from the observations at the coast stations as to whether a cyclonic storm existed within the disturbed area or not. On the 11th pressure was falling rapidly at the central stations on the west coast of the Bay, and a rather severe barometric depression was approaching the Ganjam coast, and it is clear that at this time a small but fierce and very definite cyclonic storm occupied the centre of the depression. At 8 A.M. of the 11th the centre of the small storm appeared to be some distance from the coast and about south-east of Gopalpur, and the storm had therefore probably moved in a north-westerly direction during the previous twenty-four hours with slow or moderate velocity.

Conditions during the next twenty-four hours showed an extraordinarily rapid change. The storm during the 11th underwent apparently a rapid increase in intensity, for the indications at the coast stations became much more pronounced and severe. At 2 P.M. on the 11th the storm centre had approached tolerably near to Gopalpur and was to the east-south-east of that station and had therefore continued its north-westerly advance. The storm then ceased to advance towards the coast, and as frequently happens with storms which occur late in the year, or at the close of the south-west monsoon season, it rapidly recurved, and immediately commenced to advance with greatly increased velocity in a north-easterly direction. At 8 P.M. of the 11th the centre of the storm was to the south-south-east of Saugor Island, and at 2 A.M. of the 12th it was some little distance to the south-west of Chittagong. The storm must therefore have advanced over roughly some 350 to 400 miles in the space of twelve hours from 2 P.M. of the 11th to 2 A.M. of the 12th, or at the rate of at least 30 miles an hour. This is a most exceptional speed for a fierce cyclonic storm occurring at this season of the year, if it is not indeed quite unique in its way.

The storm then continued in its north-easterly path, and at 5 A.M. of the 12th the centre was west-south-west of Chittagong and comparatively near to that station, and at this time a pressure of 29·535 inches only was reported at Chittagong, though the centre was still some distance away. Between 5 A.M. and 8 A.M. the centre of the storm had passed inland apparently between Chittagong and Noakhali, and at 8 A.M. it was well inland. The storm then commenced to break up in the hills to the north-east of Chittagong, or perhaps the storm may have travelled on into Sylhet and Cachar and then broken up in the hills.

The storm was apparently a very small one, but the exact size can only be ascertained when full observations have been received and worked out. It was certainly accompanied by very strong winds and particularly heavy sea in the Bay. Up to the present time, however, few logs of ships have been received, but in the case of the British India S. S. Karbela, which was never actually in the storm itself, but was a long distance to the east and south-east of it, Captain Phillips has reported that he experienced a "terribly high sea from S. E. to S. W." with also some "terrific squalls" of wind. The ship Wanderer encountered the small storm on her voyage towards the port of Chittagong, and the Captain of that vessel in his log thus describes some of his experiences—"11 P.M. of December 11th. Storm burst into a terrific hurricane, blowing every stitch of canvas fore and aft off the ship and gear attached. High cross sea filling ship fore and aft. Thursday, December 12th, noon. Wind N.-W. blowing a hurricane with terrific force of wind with squalls quickly following each other, making it impossible to see any distance along the deck. 1-30 P.M. Fore topmast staysail of extra canvas that was lashed on the stay was blown completely away. 2 30 P.M. Cross jack lift carried away, and whilst securing yard five hands were injured by being washed around the decks, &c." These extracts are probably sufficient to indicate that the storm, though small, was one of very considerable severity. In its inland advance the storm gave heavy rain, Chittagong reporting 4·27 inches during its passage, and several stations in the Chittagong and Noakhali districts more than 3 inches, and again several stations in Backergunge, South Lushai Hills, etc., amounts of more than 2 inches of rain.

The storm gave heavily clouded skies, high humidity and generally low temperature for several days over a large part of the province of Bengal, and in some other districts beyond those immediately in the track of the storm a few light showers fell, but on the whole the influence of the storm was much less strongly felt than might have been expected, probably mainly because of the very small size of the area of strong winds.

After the storm had rapidly broken up, probably between the 12th and 13th, for on the morning of the 13th there was practically no trace of its existence, conditions rapidly reverted to those normal for the season. An increase of pressure of about a third of an inch took place at some stations in South-East Bengal, and on the morning of the 13th the cyclonic circulation of winds disappeared and northerly winds began to re-appear, and winds became lighter in force. Skies also began to clear, and on the 15th very little trace of the existence of the severe storm remained. For the period from the 13th to the 25th also the meteorological changes in Bengal were of little importance, and fine settled weather of ordinary north-east monsoon character obtained.

From about the 25th instant, however, conditions began to change in the Bay. On the morning of that day wind velocity at 8 A M. at Diamond Island had increased to 30 miles an hour, but generally over the Bay conditions did not point to any disturbance forming. On the 26th the average velocity of the north-east winds at Diamond Island had equalled 22 miles an hour, and the 8 A.M. velocity was 34 miles, or a moderate gale, and conditions seemed to point to disturbed conditions in the south-east of the Bay. On the 27th at the same station the average wind velocity had again increased to 27 miles an hour, and at 8 A.M. it equalled the large amount of 38 miles, while at the same time pressure was falling slowly along the Madras Coast and in Ceylon. Hence it was certain there was an area of squally or stormy weather existing in the extreme south or south-east of the Bay. On the 28th a fall of pressure exceeding a tenth of an inch occurred at the stations on the South Madras Coast; wind velocities also increased rapidly in the south of the Bay, and winds were probably more or less cyclonic in direction. Hence a cyclonic storm, though perhaps of not very definite nature, existed in the extreme south-west of the Bay on this day, the centre being probably to the east of Ceylon. The small storm on the morning of the 29th instant was apparently more to the westward than on the 28th, and it was to the south of the Peninsula, while on the 30th it had again advanced westwards, and was probably in the Arabian Sea. It gave rather heavy weather in the south-west of the Bay for one or two days, when stormy weather with heavy squalls was reported. The storm gave very heavy rain along the Madras Coast and in Ceylon, and its influence was felt as far north as Orissa, where skies became overcast on the 28th, while the squally weather extended well into the centre of the Bay. As the storm was rather widespread, it even influenced the weather to a small extent in South Bengal, and on the 28th temperature and humidity were increasing rather rapidly, while the amount of cloud had also increased considerably, showing that conditions were somewhat unusual and disturbed.

The occurrence of a storm in the Bay at the end of December is most unusual. During the present century no single instance of the occurrence of a storm in the Bay in the second half of December has ever been recorded, and it has been hitherto accepted that the storm or cyclone season in the Bay, and even in the extreme southern part of it, ceases on the 15th of December. Experience, however, has now shown this to be incorrect. A brisk fall of pressure with a distinct increase of temperature occurred on the 29th, but on the 30th pressure was recovering. A distinct increase in the cloud proportion occurred on the 30th and 31st, probably due to the gradual advance northwards of the slightly disturbed conditions due to the storm, and on the latter date also pressure was increasing by small amounts. At the close of the month conditions in Bengal were still slightly disturbed.

Pressure.—In the first week of the month pressure was generally in slight defect from the normal. This defect was largely increased during the second week owing to the formation and passage of the cyclonic storm, and the general defect for the week equalled from about 0·08″ to 0·09″, but at Noakhali it equalled 0·134″, at Chittagong 0·128″ and at Comilla 0·126″, near which stations the storm passed. A rapid recovery of pressure then occurred, and for the third week an excess of 0·02″ to 0·04″ was registered, and from this time until nearly the end of the month slight excess amounts were usually recorded. For the whole month the variations of the mean pressure from the normal have been very small, and at the great majority of stations defects of a few thousandths of an inch have been registered. The largest defects have been in South-East Bengal, through which the storm passed, and here they have equalled about 0·025″ to 0·03″. In Assam the defect has equalled 0·009″ only.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole province of Bengal for December has been 0·6″ in defect of the normal. This defect has been entirely confined to the night or minimum temperatures which have usually averaged from about 1° to 2° below the normal. On the other hand, the day or maximum temperatures have usually averaged a few tenths of a degree in excess of the normal.

The general variation of temperature from the normal during the month is best shown by the following table, which gives the variation of the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts of the province, week by week throughout the month.

Rainfall.—An average fall of 1·34 inches has been received in East Bengal, almost the whole of which occurred during the cyclonic storm which advanced from the Bay. This fall is about four times as large as usual in December. Bihar has received the next largest fall, which, however, only averages 0·10 inch, which is little more than half the normal fall. South-West Bengal, North Bengal and Chota Nagpur have received a few light showers, but the falls have only averaged a few hundredths of an inch, and have therefore been of no practical importance. Finally, Orissa has received no rain at all during December.

The most important average district falls during December have been—Noakhali 3·66 inches, South Lushai Hills 3·31 inches, Chittagong 2·67 inches, Backergunge 1·88 inches Tippera 1·34 inches, Dacca 0·56 inch, Faridpur 0·35 inch, Mymensingh 0·28 inch, Champaran 0·30 inch and Santhal Parganas 0·22 inch, with falls of one to two-tenths of an inch in Khulna, Bogra, Shahabad, Saran, Muzaffarpur and Manbhum.

The following table gives in a condensed form the summary of the rainfall information in Bengal for the whole year. It gives a comparison between the actual monthly and total rainfall of the year with the normal values in each of the six meteorological divisions of Bengal, the actual falls being expressed as percentages of the normal amounts. From these figures it will be seen that all the divisions except Orissa have received falls much smaller than usual during the year. In Orissa a small excess of eight per cent. has been registered, the greater part of the excess falling in June. In all other divisions the falls have been in considerable defect, the deficiency ranging from 12 per cent. in North Bengal and Chota Nagpur to no less than 29 per cent in South-West Bengal. In the last-named division indeed the rainfall throughout the year has been largely defective except in the single month of April.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of th Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the [illegible]. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The rainfall of the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question station in the district sending in return divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of January 1896.

explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are r, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least .1 of rain has fallen

CALCUTTA, the 14th January 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY THE 11TH OF JANUARY 1896.

FINE settled weather of ordinary north-east monsoon character has prevailed over Bengal for the whole of the week under review, and the meteorological changes which have occurred from day to day have been of the small oscillatory character common during such periods. On the 5th instant, or the first day of the week, pressure had risen slowly to moderately over the whole province, and had become in moderate excess. Temperature had also generally increased, but the mean was below the normal over the western half of the province, and above it at the eastern and north-eastern stations, though the day temperatures were decidedly higher and the night much lower than usual, and the defects in the minimum temperatures ranged up to from 4° to 6° at a few stations. On the 6th pressure was falling slowly, while temperature was increasing rather briskly; but this increase ceased on the 7th and 8th, and was replaced by a fall on each day, while pressure continued to decrease slowly on the 7th and rose slowly on the 8th. The changes on the 9th, 10th, and 11th were again unimportant, though the fall of pressure on the 10th was moderate in amount, while temperature was usually falling slowly. Thus on the 11th the variations of the pressure from the normal were small, the majority of stations showing slight excess, while on the other hand the mean temperature was in decided defect, the variation usually equalling from 2° to 5°.

Throughout the whole of the week skies have been almost cloudless and rainfall has been entirely absent, and a steady northerly wind current of moderate strength has prevailed over the whole province.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been slightly above the normal at almost all stations, and the excess has usually equalled from 0·02″ to 0·04.″

Temperature.—The north-east monsoon conditions have again been decidedly strongly developed during the week, and the average mean temperature of the whole province has been 1·2° below the normal. The defect has been largest in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, where it has equalled from 2° to 3°, while it has averaged 1·6° in South-West Bengal, and the deficiency has been smallest in East Bengal, where it has been less than half a degree.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given :—

RULES FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF SUB-INSPECTORS OF POLICE.

THE next divisional examination of candidates to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Inspector of Police will be held on the 20th and 21st July 1896, at the following centres:—at Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi, and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions; and at Cuttack for the Orissa Division. The following classes of candidates will be admissible to the examination:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age.

(b) Persons now serving as head-constables and writer-constables in the police, who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age, and are of not less than two years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 2.

2. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he is up to the physical standard prescribed by Government circular No. 4436J., dated the 9th July 1892.

NOTE.—"Stuttering or stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a district officer.

3. Applications for permission to appear at the examination must be submitted, not later than one month before the date fixed, to the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides, stating the place at which he desires to appear for examination. Each application from class (a) candidates must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5. All candidates will be required to satisfy the conditions specified in Rule 2 above. The certificate of health should be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or in Calcutta by one of the Professors of the Calcutta Medical College. Forms of application are available in the offices of District Superintendents of Police.

The Magistrate should require a personal identification of each candidate by some known person, whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificates of respectability and moral character refer to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination, and send him to the District Superintendent for certificate as to physical fitness. This certificate should contain the applicants' descriptive roll, thumb impression, signature and address for purposes of identification. The District Superintendent will then obtain a health certificate, the fee for which will in all cases be Rs. 4 from the Civil Surgeon, and send it, together with the certificate of physical fitness, to the Magistrate, who will, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding and noting the fact, grant a written permission to appear at the examination.

As these certificates form the verification rolls of candidates, they should be very carefully examined and enquiries made when necessary.

The above papers with the examination fee will be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate wishes to be examined.

The Examination Committee before the examination will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures and satisfy itself about the identity of the person appearing.

At the examination the candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

After the result of the examination is known, the certificates of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will then be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned if asked for within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

4. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

I.—Dictation, letter-drafting, precis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali, Uriya or Hindi into English. Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose one out of these three languages to be examined in. No candidate failing to obtain half-marks in this paper will be considered qualified for appointment.

II.—Paper on general knowledge. The questions will be set so as to test the general information and intelligence of candidates.

III.—Mathematics, including arithmetic and algebra, and account-keeping.

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act.

N.B.—Class (b) candidates will be exempted from passing in algebra.

5. The marks will be given on the following scale:—

1.	Dictation and language	...	...	200
2.	General knowledge	...	...	200
3.	Mathematics	...	...	200
4.	Law	...	...	200

6. The number of candidates to be selected by the examiners for each Range will be notified in the Calcutta Gazette on or before the 24th June 1896. This number will be determined by the Inspector-General of Police with reference to the number of vacancies existing or estimated as likely to occur within the course of the following year.

7. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, a list will be prepared of the candidates selected for appointment. Those who have not obtained half-marks in dictation and language, and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers may be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates a list will then be composed as follows—(a) one-half of the candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit; (b) one-half of candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks. At least two-thirds of the appointments will, if qualified candidates are available, be given to outsiders.

8. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all Bengal districts and in Manbhum; natives of Bihar in Bihar districts and in Hazaribagh and Lohardaga; and natives of Orissa in the Orissa Division and the district of Singhbhum. Selected candidates will be liable to be transferred to any district.

9. Selected candidates on appointment will undergo a three months' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts. At the end of the three months all probationers obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts and receive appointments in due course as 5th grade Sub-Inspectors. During the period of probation candidates will receive 20 rupees a month as salary; on being passed out of the Training School, they will receive Rs. 30 a month as salary. Candidates who fail to display due diligence during their period of probation will be liable to lose their appointment.

10. The position of selected candidates in the Range lists from which promotions are made will be determined by the places obtained by candidates at the Final Examination held at the conclusion of the Training School Term.

11. Candidates resident in any of the districts of the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions, who take up Hindi at this examination, will be considered to be natives of Bihar. Candidates competing at Cuttack, who take up Uriya, will be considered natives of Orissa.
